ROGERS BOASTS HE SHOOK HANDS WITH THE WINNER

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 5.—At a dinner one night at Ambassador Daves', I told the Japanese delegate: "Admiral Takahara, I want to shake hands with you. I am going home and in a few months I want to tell everybody I shook hands with the winner."

Japan came to the conference demanding a higher rating, 10-10-7, instead of 10-10-6. Yesterday she got it. They could have given it to her the first day and saved all this board bill.

Yours,
WILL.

PA NEW OBSERVES

The latest sport on Grant street, if you would like to know, is leap frog. There are some mighty clever leap froggers there, too.

One of the few old watering troughs in Lawrence county is located in Edenburg.

In Edenburg, also, is one of the few remaining covered bridges, by the way.

On the New Castle-Edenburg road, half way between Parktown Corners and Edenburg, workmen are preparing the road for 60 feet, to be repaved. The pavement had been broken up when repairs were made on a culvert. It will be two weeks before the work is finished, according to one of the men.

Friday afternoon, Pa New saw two men on Grant street, doing some surveying work. One of the men said that they were planning to do some paving on Grant street. Whoopie! Go to it. Anything to make it less bumpy.

Some road repairs are being made at Parktown Corners, Youngstown road. It seems that there is always some work to be done there.

Real workmanship is shown on the construction of a little bridge in Edenburg. It is built over a pretty pond and certainly is picturesque.

Two weeks from tomorrow will be Easter Day. Scores of churches and church organizations in the city and district are making preparations for the observance of this notable day in the religious calendar. Revivals are already in progress in many of the churches and there will be special observance of the season in all of the churches.

The Weatherman is giving a real sample of spring weather at the present time. Today is about as fine a sample of April spring weather as could be ordered.

Business is on the increase. Now is the time to buy.

Lawn rolling is the occupation of many of the owners of property in the city and suburban districts. Rolling a lawn at this season of the year is about the best move to secure a fine smooth lawn later in the spring and summer that could be suggested, experts say.

Grass fires in and out of the city are quite numerous these days. Some of the fires yesterday reached proportions where they were quite dangerous. Extra care should be taken by all not to start fires in areas where they are likely to spread to buildings or woods.

Reports from the immense Conway yards of the Pennsylvania just below Beaver Falls are that there is a decided increase in car movements during the past few weeks. Much of this increase is over the E. and A. division.

There has been no general complaint from city hall regarding the change in working hours of the clerks. Recently they commenced

Italy And France May Retire From Naval Conference

Expected Immediate Withdrawal Of Italy And France From Conference Held Up

GIVE DELEGATES FEW MORE DAYS

Faint Hope Of Any Five Power Agreement By Delegates At London

By HARRY R. FLORY, International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 5.—The expected withdrawal of France and Italy from the London naval conference was postponed for a few days today.

Foreign Minister Aristide Briand of France left for Paris this afternoon to consult with Premier Andre Tardieu. He announced he would return on Tuesday for one last fling at clearing away the obstacles preventing formulation of a five-power treaty.

Faint Hope Of Agreement
Decision to give the conference another few days' lease on life as a five-power body was reached by M. Briand, Premier MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson at a long meeting at St. James' palace this morning. They agreed to devote a few days more to political negotiations in the faint hope of agreement.

Unless success rewards their efforts by the end of next week, negotiations for a five-power London treaty will be definitely abandoned.

Viewpoints Closer
Before leaving for Paris, M. Briand declared the French and British points of view on security were closer than before, but that British officials refused to confirm.

Immediately after his talk with Briand, Premier MacDonald went to the Ritz for a conference with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and Ambassador Dwight Morrow. It was learned today that the Italian delegates, headed by Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, hope to return to Rome on April 13 whatever the status of the conference.

Fifteen firemen were trapped on one building when flames burst through the roof, cutting off access to their ladders. New ladders were raised and the men rescued as the roof collapsed.

The fire is said to have been preceded by two explosions which immediately cloaked the Western Manufacturers plant and offices in flames.

Corrigan said an investigation will be made today to determine if the conflagration was caused by incendiaries.

As the boy was running for the car, he was struck by the truck and knocked to the ground. Mr. Pardick stopped and the boy crawled out from under the front part of the machine himself.

Mr. Pardick offered to take the youngster to a physician, but the father declined stating that he would take the boy to a doctor himself. It is believed that the injuries of the little fellow were not serious.

Suspended Woman Clerk Has Filed Serious Charges

F. W. Griffith And F. E. Bonner, Power Commission Officials Face Grave Charges

SECRETARY WILBUR IS GIVEN FACTS

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 5.—Charges against F. W. Griffith, chief clerk of the Federal Power Commission, and F. E. Bonner, executive secretary of the commission, have been filed with Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, acting chairman of the commission, by Minnie L. Ward, clerk of the commission until March 25 last, when she was suspended, it was learned today.

She specifically charges Griffith with a violation of the criminal code of the United States in destroying certain letters in the commission's files.

The charge against Bonner is that he has neglected the proper administration of the affairs of the commission.

Miss Ward sets forth in her complaint that Griffith particularly destroyed or has hidden certain letters written by officials of certain power companies recommending Bonner as executive secretary of the commission, together with full replies there to, "said letters being important official papers and the subject of a later inquiry before the Senate Interstate Commerce committee."

She also refers to letters written by certain power companies in 1925, recommending Paul S. Clapp as executive secretary of the commission.

She alleges that Bonner neglected to "protect her from the abuse of Griffith," under whom she was detailed, and "failed, refused and neglected to take any action."

Captain Frank Hawks In Glider Arrives At Cleveland, O., Airport Today

The "Eagle" circled the field once before Captain Hawks took the cable connecting his craft to the towing plane which was piloted by Duke Jernigan. Hawks made a perfect landing.

The transcontinental flyer will attend a luncheon here at noon and is expected to take off shortly after noon for Buffalo, his last overnight stop before he reaches New York tomorrow.

Census Taking Moves Along Rapidly, Many Amusing Situations

By DAVID P. SENTNER, International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 5.—The great question-and-answer game run by the government every ten years was in full conversational bloom today throughout the nation.

With three days of oiling up the census-taking technique, the business of recording the economic, social and racial background of American citizens is running smoothly.

Some Bumps Too

But the course of census-gathering is not without its bumps. There are a number of problems in the job of getting answers in New York where mothers have told their boys and girls to be careful of a stranger.

To protect the jewels and aristocratic aloofness of Park avenue residents, each census-taker working this "billions dollar row" has been registered with the police department.

Inasmuch as a census without consideration of New York "speakeasies" would be an incomplete census, special provisions have been made along these lines.

All Are Immune
B. B. Saloschin, census supervisor of the district, has promised all "speakeasy" proprietors and employees that what they tabulate on the census black is "confidential" and immune from the curiosity of the prohibition department.

CENSUS TAKERS LIST PRISONERS IN JAIL

Enumeration of prisoners in the county jail was one of the features of the census enumeration in Lawrence county yesterday. The enumerator found 43 prisoners in the jail, among them seven murderers. There were 38 men and five women.

Among the prisoners from whom data was received were Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague, convicted of the murder of Corporal Brady Paul; Charles Llewellyn, William Grimm, Jack McDevitt and Jesse Martin, convicted of the murder of Clark Rea of Neshannock township, and Bertha Blunt, convicted of the murder of John Henry King.

All of the murderers, as well as other prisoners in the jail, answered the usual questions without hesitation. Work of taking the census in the jail occupied the greater part of Friday afternoon.

The enumerator was Mrs. L. G. Nail.

Youth Is Hurt; Struck By Auto

Wilbur Miller Suffers Fractured Skull In Accident On State Street

YOUNGSTOWN CAR ACCIDENT FIGURE

Wilbur Miller, aged 16, son of Roy Miller, 902 McCleary avenue, is in the Jameson Memorial Hospital with a fractured skull and other injuries sustained about 8:20 o'clock this morning at State and Grant streets.

When struck by the automobile driven by Lawrence Blockinger of 223 Holmes street, Youngstown, O.

The condition of the injured boy is such that there is little hope of his recovery.

Blockinger is being held in the city police station as a result of the accident and until he can produce registration cards and other data concerning the ownership of the car he was driving, which is not his property.

Three In Car

Blockinger with three companions, Ed. Clark, 251 Grant street, Youngstown, Ed. Learner of 704 North Walnut street, Youngstown and O. T. Gerou, 223 Holmes street, Youngstown, were enroute into the city to sell an article for which they are salesmen, when the accident occurred.

The accident occurred directly in front of the Penn State Auto Service Station, 829 State street.

The accident victim had started from the service station across State street and when about the middle of the road, for some unknown reason turned around and started back toward the service station, according to eye witnesses.

The car of Blockinger and his companions was enroute into the city, having come down State street hill and continuing on State street when the accident occurred.

Taken To Hospital

The boy was struck by the machine as he came down State street. Mr. Blockinger had the boy placed in his machine and rushed him to the Jameson Memorial Hospital, where it was determined that his skull was fractured.

On the report being received by the police, Detective C. G. Logan and Officer Thomas Lynch were detailed to make the investigation and when Blockinger arrived at the police station to make a report on the accident, it was found that he was driving the machine of Lloyd Russell of R. D. No. 1, North Jackson, O., and did not have a drivers license in Pennsylvania neither could he show the actual ownership of the car.

He was placed in city jail by Sergeant D. T. Nelson. Detective Logan and Officer Lynch, pending the thorough investigation of the accident and the return of the friends of Blockinger with actual indications of the ownership of the car. He will probably be released as soon as this matter has been clearly established.

Request For New Line Across State Is Not Approved

Interstate Commerce Commission Decision Is Unfavorable To Applicants

BELIEVE NECESSITY OF LINE NOT SHOWN

Commission Declares Present Lines Can Adequately Handle Traffic

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Examiners of the Interstate Commerce Commission today recommended that the application of the New York, Pittsburgh & Chicago Railroad to build a 283-mile line across Pennsylvania from Easton to Allegheny City, be denied.

The examiners said that present and future public convenience and necessity were not shown to require the construction and operation of the proposed line.

This project, sponsored by L. F. Loeve, president of the Delaware & Hudson, has been before the commission since March 30, 1925, and was strenuously opposed by the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, Lackawanna, Reading and Lehigh Valley railroads. The commission probably will adopt the examiners' recommendations and thus administer another defeat to Loeve, stormy petrel of the railroad world.

Low Grade Route

The main project of the proposed line was to provide a direct low-grade route between New York and Pittsburgh for through traffic between New York Harbor and the West.

Loeve described the road as being "the backbone of the premier railroad system of the country." It was originally conceived by the late E. H. Harriman in 1900.

Revised estimates placed the cost of construction and equipment at $232,500,000, an average of about $675,900 per mile.

"Inasmuch as the proposed line would be engaged almost wholly in the transportation of through traffic, as to which its function would be that of an intermediate or 'bridge' carrier, it follows that substantially all of its tonnage would be diverted from present routes," the examiners said.

Loeve Fights Hard

Loeve expressed the opinion at the hearings that his proposed line was "incomparably better" than new proposed routes of the Baltimore & Ohio and the New York Central.

The attention of the War Department having been called to the project, witnesses representing that department attended hearings under instruction for the purpose of placing in the record the view of the department that the proposed line, if constructed in accordance with present plans, would be of undoubted military advantage. One of these witnesses testified that a separate line, such as the one proposed, would be of greater military value than a like increase in capacity on line or lines already in existence.

The examiners pointed out, however, that the War Department was "perfectly neutral" upon the question of who would build or operate such an additional line.

Would Shorten Distance
The proposed main line would shorten the distance between New York and Pittsburgh.

Three Probes In Fireworks Blast

State Police, Coroner, and Department of Labor Are Investigating

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—Three separate inquiries into the series of blasts at the Devon plant of the Pennsylvania Fireworks Display company, incorporated, costing ten lives and causing two score casualties, were being pushed today while the coroner's inquest stood adjourned until Monday.

State police were sifting out the mass of alleged facts revealed by their investigation since the blasts and were trying to determine which if any have any foundation of truth.

High explosives experts were surveying the seven-acre barren tract where the eight frame structures of the plant were blown into smithereens in an effort to decide on the type of explosive materials that were stored in the buildings. A theory was advanced at the inquest hearing yesterday that a quantity of dynamite as well as black powder caused some of the destruction.

A third inquiry has been launched under the auspices of the southeast district, bureau of inspection of the state department of labor and industry. This inquiry will deal with the methods of manufacture and storing of finished fireworks products.

Trained Men Taking Census Of Distribution

Work Is Well Under Way In County Supervisor Brown States Today

SOME DELAY IS FOUND IN COUNTRY

Trained men are taking the census of distribution among business houses and manufacturing plants in the county. Census Supervisor Orville Brown stated today, and this feature of the 1930 census is now well under way here.

E. C. Jenkins, a special agent of the Census Bureau came here early this week to assist in preparing the men who are now engaged in the task and the work was then gotten under way.

James R. Long is in charge of the work in Lawrence county and is assisted by Earl M. Cornelius, Reuben J. Elliott, Frank A. Blackburn, Frank L. Clinefeiter, Elmer Elliott and J. C. Chivens.

It has come to the attention of Census Supervisor Brown that in many instances in the rural district, farmers who were sent preliminary blanks to study and prepare in expectation of the visit of the enumerator, have failed to fill out these papers and a great amount of time is being lost in completing the work in the rural districts as a result.

With a few exceptions, every farmer in Lawrence county has received one of these blanks, as they were mailed to every resident residing in the townships of which the Supervisor's office could find any record of address. Approximately 200 were returned.

Supervisor Browns asks all farmers to fill out these blanks before the enumerator arrives as it will save considerable time and effort for the enumerator, who receives his pay for each name enumerated.

Excellent returns are being made by the enumerators who are counting the noses in the city and the boroughs, it has been found.

Tony Navaree of Hillsville is leading the enumerators in the number of people counted in a single day, having tabulated the information on 212 persons in Hillsville. Mrs. Merle V. Dudley of Alliquippa leads all with a record of 319 names and 26 unemployment schedules.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Though week-end profit taking today held up the spectacular forward movement in the main body of theatrical, copper, airship and manufacturing stocks, the short session of the market was featured by a number of brilliant advances in other sections of the list.

The new 3-point rise in Standard Oil of New Jersey to 79 1/2 was the outstanding feature of the industrial list. This stock has risen from below 60 in a month, principally as the result of the improvement in the oil markets and the development of the natural gas fields under control of the giant company.

The balance of the fast-steppers were in the utility group. Consolidated Gas sold above 130 for a new gain of 3 points and Brooklyn Union Gas sold above 170 on renewal of merger talk. Columbia Gas and Electric advanced 3 points to 86 and American Tel & Tel sold above 270, up 3.

Second Largest Session.

Action relative to a resolution which would increase the membership of the board of trustees from six to nine was taken. It was unanimously adopted. Further action on the part of the trustees will be necessitated before the resolution becomes effective.

STAR LORE
By Arthur DeV. Carpenter
After the pitch mat has cooled, the mirror is pressed down over it to make exact contact between mirror and mat. Then the polishing begins; the mirror polishing and the deepening of mirror go on together. This is the most particular task of all for a mirror may be easily ruined. The deepening of the mirror center may be done in several ways. One of the best methods is to rotate the mirror around the center of the "tool," so that the center of the mirror is polished down, deepening it into a paraboloid figure. One will need to consult a good text on the subject for fine details of this critical figuring.

TRAFFIC'S TOLL

THE report that 26,501,443 motor vehicles were registered in the United States in 1929 prepares the nation for a corresponding increase in traffic casualties last year. Figures on the latter are not complete, but reports by states and cities show a disquieting increase.

Estimates for 31 states give 31,500 persons killed in motor accidents last year, an increase of 13 per cent over 1928. Complete returns for New York state show 2,960 traffic deaths, or 278 more than in the preceding year.

Another known fact about traffic accidents is that while taxicabs represent but 2 per cent of the registered vehicles they were responsible for 20 per cent of the accidents. These figures inspired the comment by Secretary of Commerce Lamont that "in our hurry we seem to have forgotten the instinct of self preservation."

It is not surprising that traffic accidents increase as the number of motor vehicles grows and congestion becomes more acute. The amazing thing is that the accident rate does not climb more rapidly than the registration, for a 10 per cent increase in congestion means about a 20 per cent increase in the hazards.

Reviewing the accident situation, one comes to the conclusion that it is possible to drive safely under the most adverse conditions yet many do not drive safely when conditions are most favorable.

THE GREAT QUESTIONNAIRE

There was a time when the decennial census-taking was a solemn ceremony with the entire nation alert and somewhat anxious over the coming of the enumerators and announcement of the population figures. This generation takes the whole business as commonplace and all a part of the day's questioning.

This change of public attitude is not difficult to explain. War drives, community fund drives, local census surveys and a thousand and one questionnaires have combined to make the household apathetic. They are now taken as a matter of course along with other petty annoyances heralded by the doorbell. So the visit of the census enumerators bring no thrills this year.

From this it must not be presumed that the public census has lost its old appreciation of the importance of an accurate and complete census. Answers to the questions are being given freely and frankly in the universal knowledge that the information is needed by Uncle Sam.

While the number of questions is imposing none is impudent, impertinent or trivial. From the answers the government and business will extract information that will aid them in making this a better country in which to live and work.

DEMAND FOR ART

Europe's superiority complex and condescending attitude toward America and Americans have been largely due to her belief it has amounted to a religion with her—that the liking of the average American for making money and owning strings of automobiles and luxurious yachts exceeded his love of art. Europeans must now desert that way of thinking.

Art in the United States has become "big business." Last year, despite Wall Street's violent ups and downs, Americans spent $250,000,000 for works of art.

While the report of the American Art Dealers Association lists large sums spent by museums and collectors, it leaves a most notable total credited to small purchasers. Art has ceased to be esoteric in the United States, a change which conclusively refutes the European charge. So while Europe continues to think of Americans only as owners of electric washing machines and foreign bonds, there is no denying that the real American's home often contains art of a quality unknown abroad except in castles and museums.

Another significant and encouraging feature of the 1929 report on art sales is the tabulation showing that only one-third of the total sales were of old masters and that $25,000,000 worth of prints and etchings were sold, a large share of them to individuals. Here is proof that the young living artists are winning appreciation and patronage.

After a research of the subject covering a long period of years, we conclude that the word used oftenest in irony is as follows: "Alas!"

A weakness of practically all the household budget systems is that there is no column for small loans from the wife in the middle of the fiscal week.

Due to the efforts of a government bureau, the number of types of wheelbarrows now available for wheeling on the day after election has been condensed to 22.

Behold, One Oil King.

Our Flying Army.

How Crime Is Financed.

Name It Newton.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1936, King Features
Syn., Inc.)

LOS ANGELES, April 5.—The gasoline threat that worried the big oil men a few days ago is becoming reality. Here the price has been cut as low as 10 cents and deeper cuts are expected. This is due to disorganized production and disorganized distribution.

Any buyer who exists in the low price of today exists prematurely. He will more than make up for it later on.

Old Royalty, kings, queens, emperors, etc., are going out. In the realm of finance, kings are coming in. The American government, interested in American States prosperity, might make a careful study of Sir Charles Deterding, head of the Shell Oil company. An able Dutchman, born in Holland, knighted by the British, with his office in London, Deterding surveys the world from the oil man's point of view, literally, as an imperial conqueror.

In the Dutch East Indies where his company started, he has gigantic holdings, at the door of China.

An understanding with the British Burmah gives him an oil supply inside the import duty frontier of India. He has gigantic oil deposits in Venezuela, and in California he is one of the biggest owners of oil territory, very convenient for shipping to Japan.

He has great holdings in the Mid-Continent field, and his "Shell" signs are scattered, his yellow Shell wagons busy, literally all over the United States.

The other day as lowest bidder he supplies the Japanese navy with oil for a year at 54 cents a barrel, the lowest price ever quoted, and probably bought it from independent California producers for 40 or 45 cents a barrel. California produces the oil, Japan gets the oil, Deterding gets the profit, the United States sees its oil supply diminished.

American companies are not allowed to operate in their own country as Deterding operates here.

Standard Oil of California must confine itself to its own territory. Standard Oil of New Jersey and New York each have their territory.

Deterding has the United States and all of the outside world for HIS territory.

There is a savage oil fight going on now between Standard Oil of New York and Shell Oil, in the Orient. Prices are cut ruthlessly, especially in China, where kerosene is the important product. Also in Japan, where gasoline becomes more and more important.

Deterding, a genius fully developed octopus, can afford to burn up millions in his price war with Standard Oil in China, making up for it by his profitable business here in the United States. No Sherman law restrictions for him.

He is making progress in Australia, Africa, all over the world, a real business man.

It might be wise for the United States government to drop some of its childish fetishes and let American corporations grow as big as they can grow.

On Mather field, Sacramento, Brig. Gen. William E. Gillmore directs the maneuvers of army airplanes, greatest gathering in the history of the Army Air Corps.

One hundred fifty-nine army planes from small, swift pursuit planes to heavy bombing machines, are taking part in maneuvers such as would be necessary in actual war.

Heavy bombing planes fly low, protected by swift pursuit planes, ready to beat off any theoretical attack.

Men that have inspected the equipment of European armies, including France and Britain, say the "provisional wing" commanded by Gen. Gillmore is as efficient a unit as would be found anywhere on earth.

The next thing is to make our air fleet ten times as big as it is, and to arrange for building of all mail and civilian planes in such fashion as would make them efficient under the direction of army officers in case of need.

A Los Angeles man and his assistant are locked up here for operating, quite openly, a 400-gallon still. The man's wife tells the judge it is wrong to arrest her husband since he was "paying $200 a month to men from the sheriff's office, and supposed everybody knew he was running the still and paying the men."

Each day the still produced 250 gallons of alcohol, taken away only in a truck. When the barn containing the still burned down, blazing alcohol compelled attention.

To make 250 gallons of alcohol costs about $375. The bootlegger will buy it for $1,250, add coloring matter, and other ingredients and sell it for $6,250.

You see that bootlegging is profitable. The still operator makes $875 a day, the bootlegger gets $5,000 a day. The $200 a month alleged to have been paid to the sheriff's men seems small.

The fact that there are hundreds of thousands of stills, big and little, throughout the country, explains the generous financing of our modern crime wave.

The small new planet whose existence was asserted by the late Professor Lowell, continues to agitate scientists. Guided by Newton's law, Professor Lowell knew that disturbances in the orbit of Uranus, must be accounted for by the existence of another planet. (Continued On Page Five)

Mill workers and millionaires common citizens and clever comrades—we present for your inspection on this day and date, none other than Gilligwater Von Statistician, the greatest census taker that ever existed. He can turn into instant g'd almost anything he writes or says. Not many have the patience to keep going after nine years of failure.

FAILURE Speaking of George Bernard Shaw and success, he said you reserve for yourself alone the right to be a judge as to whether you are a failure. Don't ever let anybody else decide this for you. So long as you don't admit failure to yourself you are going good.

Was all this painstaking care worth anything? Well, he made himself immortal at least. In this year of 1936 the world of letters celebrates the 2000th anniversary of Virgil's birth.

NO SECOND BEST The inspiring thing about Virgil, about all great artists, is not so much the substance of the thing they produce. The big idea is they do not accept the second best. They are satisfied with no less than perfection. Of course even the greatest men do not reach perfection. Nobody does. The main thing is not to be satisfied, spiritually, with any less. Failure is not fatal. We can always try again. The acceptance of poor performance as "good enough" is the serious thing.

COMPROMISING The policy of being satisfied in the mind with anything less than the best we know how, is mixed with the subject of compromise, which was discussed in this column the other day. When we have compromised with the best that is in us, with the best we know, we have adopted a cheap, second-rate policy. If such a policy can lead to peace of mind it can only be because of mental and moral deterioration. Nobody in mental health wants to die on his feet.

TOWN DOCTOR

Hints and Dints and Other Features

"DOCTOR OF TOWNS" SAYS

WHY DO YOU BUY WHAT YOU BUY WHERE YOU BUY IT?

This article has nothing to do with "Buy At Home," "Be Loyal to Home Town Merchants," or even "Try The Home Folks First." Forget all you ever heard about anything of this kind when you read this.

It doesn't make any difference here what you buy or where you buy it—it's WHY you buy where you buy.

Whenever you buy anything there is a reason for buying it at the place or store where you buy it. You may not stop to think of that reason, but it's there just the same.

That reason may be (1) convenience, (2) necessity, (3) personal association with the place or someone in that place, (4) because you like to buy at that place (service and atmosphere), (5) selection of merchandise, (6) kind of merchandise the place sells, (7) habit, and (8) price. There are one or two others but the above cover the reasons governing most of us.

Now we all know that as far as convenience and necessity are concerned, the community where we live has the advantage, and the third, or "personal association," favors our own community. No. 4 or "because you like to," CAN be favorable to the community, but all too often we would rather, from an enjoyment standpoint, buy elsewhere.

No. 5, "selection of merchandise," is not always in favor of local stores, and that is one reason why so many people want to, and do, go out of town to buy certain things. The merchant says he cannot carry large stocks—he can if he does the business to warrant it. Whether he does that or not depends on two things—one is himself, the other is you. But that is another subject.

No. 6 is absolutely up to the merchant—he can handle good goods or the other kind, and that is strictly his business; but from a community standpoint which is your business, a lot of stores with a lot of cheap merchandise create a cheap impression.

No. 7, "habit," is one of the greatest factors in selling today. We are all creatures of habit. What we do once is easier to do the second time, and each time thereafter, and soon we do things and go places from force of habit.

No. 8, "price," Here is a real reason. Many people will say price hasn't anything to do with it; that what counts is quality first, price second. There is truth in that, but the fact remains that more of us are coaxed into stores on the price reason, than anything other. It is second nature for most of us to be taken in by a bargain—especially the ladies—and if we can, or think we can, buy something for less it appeals to us. The price reason does influence us.

Now do not misunderstand this or get the wrong impression. Whether one store or one kind of store actually sells for less or not doesn't enter into this. All we are interested in now is whether price is a reason why.

Now, why do you buy what you buy where you buy it? It doesn't make any difference where, in your town or some other place, but—why? What attracts you to stores? If you buy mail order, why? No matter where, why?

Sit down and write out your reasons, in a letter of not more than 100 words, and send it to me. For every letter that is published, I will send the writer my personal check for one dollar. You can write as many letters as you like. Of course you will have to sign your name, but I will give you my word that if you say so your name will never be used or published. There is no catch to this, and it is open to everyone, especially the ladies and the farmers.

Do this it will help you and it will "Help Build New Castle." (Copyright, 1936, A. D. Stone. Reproduction prohibited in whole or in part.)

For nine years publishers rejected all that George Bernard Shaw, brilliant Britisher, wrote. Shaw says there was no "turning point" in his life. He just kept straight on. No Major Candidates In Pennsylvania Primaries Expected To Withdraw Names

Governor Fisher Is Unusually Silent—Secretary Davis May Resign Cabinet Post

By FRED K. McILVAINE
International News Service Staff Correspondent
HARRISBURG, April 5.—With but two days and Monday remaining for the withdrawal of candidates from the primary race, it became more apparent than ever today that no major candidates for office are going to drop out of the race.

Just what will happen in the disagreement over the slating of Judge George W. Maxey, of Scranton, and Lieutenant Governor Arthur H. James, of Plymouth, for the supreme court on the Davis-Brown slate remains to be seen. Its status remains the same, with Judge Maxey seemingly slated but with William S. Vare and influential Allegheny county leaders standing by the lieutenant governor.

Fisher Is Silent
Governor John S. Fisher continues his more or less aloof attitude toward the campaign, but unchanged, too, in his support of the candidacy of Senator Joseph R. Grundy, the "fighting Quaker" to succeed himself in the United States Senate.

Frank J. Gorman, Fisher's secretary, has assumed command of the Grundy headquarters in Philadelphia and will divide his time between there and Harrisburg. This was interpreted as proof that the secret visit of Senator Grundy with Governor Fisher last Tuesday midnight, saw the difficulties between them over the late candidacy of Samuel S. Lewis as Grundy's gubernatorial running mate, completely adjusted.

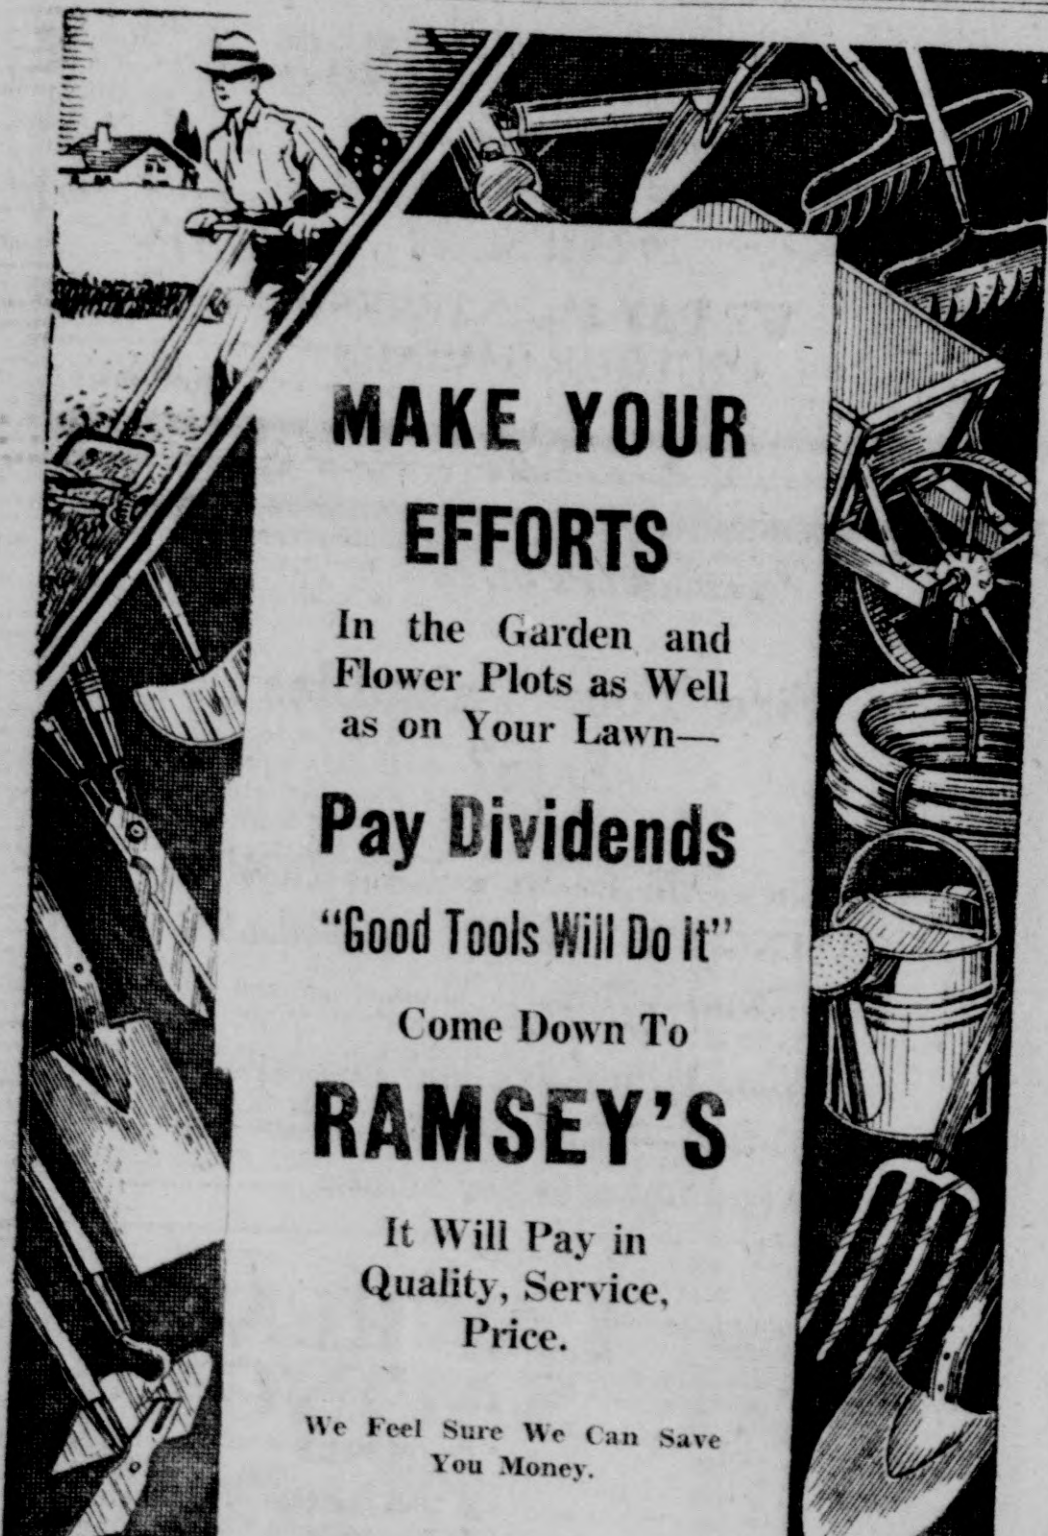

Davis May Resign
Rumors over the action Secretary of Labor James J. Davis will take so far as resigning from President Hoover's cabinet, concerned, continue. Davis, seeking the senatorial toga, has announced his desire to avoid embarrassing the president by taking a stand against the eighteenth amendment, yet the faces the fact that such a stand, or one at least for modification, might do his cause some good.

It is freely predicted by some—and as freely denied by others—that the secretary will resign to devote his entire time and energies to his campaign. That, too, remains to be seen and the secretary has promised that when he does make the decision, he will announce it at once.

Commissioners Get Releases On Road To Be Improved

Others To Be Obtained Before They Will Sanction Wurttemberg Improvement

County Commissioners P. O. Elder and T. J. McCullough met property owners at the Pleasant Hill school house last night for the purpose of discussing the proposed improvement of the Wurttemberg road, and of getting releases from damages.

The commissioners have found by experience that when releases are not secured before a road is improved that there are a lot of claims for damages in which there is little or no merit. As a result of their experiences they have determined that hereafter when roads are to be improved, release must be signed before they will give their consent to the improvement.

In their conference last night they found that residents of that section realize that the improvement of the road will greatly enhance the value of their properties, and they are disposed to remit all claims for damages, except in cases where considerable land has been taken or a real estate interest is involved.

The commissioners are willing to be fair in making their settlements but they do not propose to be held up where the enhancement of values of property might outweigh any damage that might occur.

The commissioners secured a large number of releases last night in which the property owners waived all claims for damages, and expect to get the state department for the improvement, but the commissioners will not sanction the letting of the contract until all releases have been secured.

Memorial Services Held For Washburn

BERLIN, April 5.—Memorial services for the late Albert H. Washburn, former United States Ambassador to Australia, were held by the Anglo-American Colony here today. Washburn's widow and son attended.

Sir Eric Phipps, British Ambassador to Vienna and a close friend of Washburn, paid tribute to the life and career of the dead diplomat.

The body of Ambassador Washburn will be buried temporarily in the Hietzing cemetery, and later taken to Trieste from where it will be transported to the United States aboard an American warship.

USED CAR VIEWS

Shenango Motor Company

About this time of year, a lot of so-called bargains make their appearance in the used car offered. It is a good plan to look carefully for cracked blocks, freezing having been quite severe as late as three weeks ago.

Now a motor with a cracked block can give no end of trouble. If you don't know how to look for this trouble, get some friend to go with you in searching for a good used car.

Other troubles may be less grievous. For instance, There is a small roadster. It has a broken high speed drum, but most any man with a little mechanical ability could replace it at small cost. Accordingly, the car is priced at a mere $30, and the tires are worth that.

Come over to Shenango Motor Co. Used Car lot tomorrow, and feast your eyes on real used car values.

Some News, Some Views, But Most Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Back when there was a fence around Cascade Park, they called it "rasslin'." Any time a kid from Slabtown met up with one from the Fall Tract there usually was a "rasslin' match, and they came back in memory last night when I saw the wrestling finals of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the Jolly Bowl. And the boxing finals also.

The boys were held down to the rules meticulously, but even at that, it's a game that brings out a competitor in his real colors. When a burly opponent gets a headlock around you and begins to squeeze a pipe vice, it's there that the red and blue shows up, and the yellow if there is any.

They don't seem to go for the holds that were considered legal back in those old days referred to above. Maybe it's because one was "rasslin'" and the other is wrestling. In those old days one of the very elegant holds was the thumb pushed in back of the other fellow's ear. A tasty bit of a hold you'll agree, if you ever had it worked on you.

Or if you happen to be a little taller than your opponent, it was perfectly all right to stick your chin in the other lad's eye and bear down. No jiu jitsu about those holds. They were good old fashioned Fall Tract technique and no second ever threw in a towel for his man, they needed the towel to wrap him up in.

Some slight difference between the rules of the boxing matches last night and the slugging matches of years ago seem to stand out also. The twenty four foot ring of today was then a space in Cunningham's Woods, and there was only one round. That lasted till one of the lads got wallowed. Nor did they stand so meticulously on rules. If your opponent was a bit large, a handy baseball bat would carve him down to your size in practically no time at all.

It was a real tournament of wrestling and boxing last night. More titles than you could find in a first class lodge. Everything from general managers down to road foremen of envelopes. Some of the former leaders in the Pennsylvania here, were back for the meet. Saw Raymond Swenk there, and Norman Pitcairn, both of whom were superintendents at one time, of the E. & A. Division.

Quite a load in from Philadelphia, Johnny Eberle was in and I had seen him for nearly a year. Some from as far west as Indianapolis and as far east as Long Island.

One boxing match proved the old saw, "you can't be good in all sports." One portly lad from Lewistown had made a real match out of a wrestling bout. Heavy he was, but quite agile and his work on the mat drew him a hand.

A little later he essayed to come back in the form of a boxer, all of which could be listed under the heading of Regrettable Errors. Nobody can maul around on a wrestling mat for nine minutes with a tough opponent and then come back and throw three rounds in the ring and the boy from Lewistown proved it.

There is an ecclesiastic air about The News office on Friday and Saturday of each week. Not that the editor puts on a frock coat, or that the reporters take up a collection, it's just the kind of visitors. Ministers, Salesmen of Salvation, and always ready to show their samples.

In the old days it was Joshua, who made the sun stand still wasn't it? Nowadays it is Joshua, Rev. Clifford S., who has the customers standing up in Croton that is those who are too late for a seat.

Rentz Is Named To Attend Meeting At Washington, D. C.

Elected By Chamber Of Commerce As National Councillor For Year

FRED L. RENTZ

Fred L. Rentz, president of the News Company, was named National Councillor to represent New Castle Chamber of Commerce, at the meeting of the board of directors held in the Castle today. Mr. Rentz will attend the national business meeting to be held in Washington, D. C. under the auspices of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce from April 28 to May 1.

This will be the eighteenth annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and will attract the leading business men from all branches of commerce and industry throughout the United States, Philippine Islands, Hawaii and other U. S. possessions. Approximately 3,600 will be present, and will give their attention to a discussion of "What Is Ahead for Business."

As a result of the annual meetings of the Chamber of Commerce in the United States, referendums dealing with all phases of business are prepared and circulated throughout the United States to banks, industrial corporations, trade associations and Chamber of Commerce, by which thorough studies are made and votes taken, after which recommendations are made to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in order that business policies of the nation may be formulated.

The coming conference is considered the most important gathering of business men from the nation and insular possessions ever held and is especially pertinent at this time.

Railroad Briefs

RETIRED AGENT RETURNS

Harry L. Alexander, but recently retired as division freight agent of the Pennsylvania railroad here and who for the past two months has been sojourning in California and other southwestern cities with Mrs. Alexander in the interest of their health, returned home last night. Both appear to be in excellent health after the long rest in the western climate.

During their stay in the west visits were made to San Diego, Los Angeles, Hollywood, Tucson, Phoenix and in cities in New Mexico. Former New Castle residents were met almost every place they went, and it was their pleasure to be present when the annual reunion of New Castle folks in the west was held this year.

Mr. Alexander is retired, that is true, but only from the service of the Pennsylvania. Always a lover of horses, it is his intentions to devote his entire time to the raising of fine race horses.

Upon arriving at his office, where he directed the freight business of the local office since 1909, one of the first things he did was to congratulate his successor, C. J. Calahan, formerly agent at Niles, upon his promotion.

Plan To Examine Blood Stains In Headless Murder

Clothing Thought To Have Been Worn By Headless Murder Victim Is Found

HUNT CONTINUES FOR MORE CLUES

PITTSBURGH, April 5.—Renewed impetus was lent efforts to establish the identity of Pittsburgh's headless murder victim today when two small boys found bloodstained and slashed clothing, believed to have been worn by the murdered man, near the spot where his nude body, crammed into a cabbage barrel, was found Thursday.

The clothing was found early this morning. Police believe the clothing was ripped from the decapitated victim after the killing in order to hide traces of the crime.

George Murren, chief of Allegheny county detectives, immediately arranged for the bloodstained and slashed clothing to be tested. Murren stated unhesitatingly that he believed the analysis would prove beyond doubt the clothes were worn by the victim when he was killed.

Finding of the clothing marked another link in the police investigation of the case. The first came when the mutilated head was found soon after discovery of the body and this was followed last night when the barrel which contained the gruesome find was identified as having come from the warehouse of a chain store in Burgettstown, Washington county suburb.

Rev. A. H. Hintze To Speak In Epworth

This evening in the Epworth Methodist church, Rev. A. H. Hintze of Newport News, Va., will be the speaker. Mr. Hintze studied law before he entered the ministry and his ability as a public speaker has surpassed. He has established many churches through his evangelistic campaigns. These meetings are being sponsored by the Pentecostal Assembly and Friday evening Rev. W. L. Shirer told of his call to the mission fields of French West Africa and Mrs. Shirer brought the evangelistic message, "God's Call to Man."

ATTEND FUNERAL

A number of relatives and friends from Tarentum attended the funeral of the late Grace Cowan Spellhauser held Tuesday from the home of her aunt, Mrs. A. J. Deemer of the New Castle-Ellwood City road. Those attending were Mrs. Mary Findley, Mrs. J. C. Lightner, Mrs. and Mrs. John Barndollar, Mrs. Annie Cowan, Mrs. Elizabeth Schumaker, Harry Findley, Mrs. Sarah Shorey.

Gandhi's Followers To Defy Government

(International News Service)
BOMBAY, April 5.—Ending his long and fatiguing march from Ahmadabad, Mahatma Gandhi arrived with 82 faithful followers today at his destination on the shores of the bay of Cambay and pitched camp to rest until tomorrow when he intends to defy the government and manufacture salt.

The independence leader set up his camp in the small and ragged town of Bandi, a collection of ramshackle buildings in the salt marshes, accessible only by a rough and bullock cart rutted road. On the last leg of his march he was accompanied by numerous sympathizers who rode in gaily bedecked and placarded bullock carts.

A large police force has been detailed to duty along the bay shore to prevent possible disorders. While Gandhi has been openly defying the authorities to arrest him, it is understood he will not be molested until it is considered necessary to maintain order.

Fifty Hurt in Riot.

A check-up today disclosed that more than 50, including several police, were hurt in yesterday's riot here when police were forced to charge into an unruly gang of demonstrating strikers. The railroad station where the clash occurred is heavily guarded today.

There is considerable tension throughout India over the outcome of Gandhi's defiant attitude. It is generally believed, however, that the government will not interfere with salt-making project, as it is expected to assume but minor proportions.

Merchants' organizations in various cities have passed resolutions boycotting English goods as a gesture of support for the Mahatma.

"Thank God I have safely reached the first stage of the final struggle for freedom," Gandhi declared upon his arrival at Dandi.

Family Saved As Home Takes Fire

PITTSBURGH, April 5.—Members of the family of L. F. Kinderman of Oakmont, a suburb, were saved from serious injury or possible death today when neighbors discovering the Kinderman home afire, entered and aroused the family.

Kinderman carried one child thru the burning home to the street, while neighbors carried a second child and assisted Mrs. Kinderman to a place of safety.

The fire, confined to the interior of the home, did $4,000 damage.

Five Are Held On Murder Charges

Mercer County Sheriff To Establish Murderer's Row In County Jail

MERCER, Pa., April 5.—Sheriff Dan Callahan stated yesterday that he will establish a "Murderers' Row" in the county jail with five listed for cell occupancy.

The last to arrive at the prison is Joe Harnett of Sharon charged with the murder of Henry Divil. Newspaper readers will remember well the sensational arrest and trial of Frank Pantaleo of No. 5 Mine who was alleged to have shot to death Bruno Gannell on New Years Eve. He was found guilty and life imprisonment imposed by jury verdict. He awaits his petition asking a new trial. The remaining trio that make up this census are the boys held for the murder of Frank Di Silvio of Farrell. Two of the pair, Frank Yawosky and Joe Michalin are charged with murder, the third John Skuvich of Farrell gave them the gun.

BARTON SEEKS RELEASE
Postmaster Dunham Barton has asked for his release from the Mercer Postoffice several times since the first of the year with no intimation as yet from the postoffice department when his successor will be qualified. David Cummings was named by Congress T. C. Cochran for the post early this year. The appointment of Cummings strenuously opposed, has been held up since that time. The office was recently inspected by the department and found to be in first class shape. Something definite will be done soon is the belief here.

TO BUILD MUCH ROAD
Mercer county will build 20 miles of ash and slag road this coming summer in the 32 townships that make up the county terrain it is said at the office of the commissioners. The mileage is the smallest of ten years reports Commissioner Harry Hunter who is in charge of county road building. It is due to the fact that the state can assist only to the extent of $12,000 which means nothing in building roads costing an average of $5,000 a mile. The county will have but $32,000 this year to give due to the fact they are forced to buy voting machines for 14 voting districts. Seventeen of the 32 townships have increased their mileage to build or repair roads; nearly all of them are in debt for this improvement.

TO TRY FEW CASES
There are but 75 transcripts listed here for the April term with plans sufficient to reduce the trial list from this total to 30 cases. There yet remains over a week until the Grand Jury convenes which will mark the close of the term. The jury meeting date is that of April 21. From police records there is very little hope of the number increasing materially. What the list will lose in quantity it will make up in quality of the crime that is carded for trial at the term which opens its trial list on April 28. Should the action against Joe Harnett be heard at this term which is likely there will be three tried for the crime of murder and one as an accessory to the fact. Should this occur which seems likely now a century of court records will be broken.

Hold Discussion Of Industrial Problems Here

POWER COMPANY HEADS ARE GUESTS

Mr. Hoover stated that their company is making a detailed survey of the needs of approximately 500 branches of industry to the end that some of the plants may be secured for this district. The Chamber of Commerce has been working with the P. and O. system and other agencies along similar lines and it is hoped that favorable results will be secured.

Green Opposed To Seating Parker As New Court Justice

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 5.—The opinion of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, nominated to be an associate justice of the supreme court, in upholding the so-called "Yellow Dog" contracts, made "serfs on the miners of West Virginia," William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, told a subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee today.

He testified he appeared to protest Parker's confirmation in behalf of the labor unions.

Before he took the stand Senator Overman (D) of North Carolina, read into the record a letter from Gov. O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina, endorsing Parker, who lives at Charlotte, N. C.

House Gets Bill On Muscle Shoals

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 5.—The question of providing for government operation of the huge $100,000,000 Muscle Shoals power project in Alabama and constructing a new high power dam at Cove Creek in Tennessee was up to the house today following passage of the Norris bill by the Senate.

The bill, introduced by Senator Norris (R) of Neb., insurgent leader, would create a federal corporation to operate the Muscle Shoals project on the Tennessee River and erect the Cove Creek project on the Clinch River, 300 miles away. One effort to provide for private operation of the Shoals project for manufacturing fertilizer was rejected by the Senate. The bill carried an appropriation of $10,000,000, so that the Federal Corporation could start immediately.

Senate Rates Are In Predomination

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 5.—The Senate and House conferees, engaged in settling differences in the new tariff bill, completed the chemical, oil and paint schedules today with the senate rates predominating in the compromise.

The conferees skipped the cement, plaster paris and casin items but otherwise reached an agreement on every rate in the first schedule. They immediately began action on the second or earths and earthenware schedule.

To the Voters of the Second Legislative District of Lawrence County:

So far as I have been informed, no candidate for Assembly in the second district of this county has announced on a "wet" platform. Neither am I to be understood as suggesting that any candidate intends to do so. However, in the light of the general discussion of the prohibition question, I believe that, at this time, I ought to state in this paper my views on the subject.

As I have said in numerous communications sent direct to many voters in the second district, I favor prohibition because I believe it is right. You will see, therefore, that I base my position on something higher than either the statute or the constitution.

I do not belittle enforcement of law for no other reason than it is the law, nor suggest that the constitution ought not to be respected simply because it is the constitution. However, either former errors of judgment or changes in governmental policy have rendered necessary the amendment of that honorable document that we call the constitution of the United States nineteen times. Statutes have been repealed and amended every session of congress and of the legislature. But what is right is right and requires no repeal.

Both constitutions and statutes often have expressed only governmental policy, and no doubt will continue to do so; but the liquor question is more than governmental policy. It is a question of right and wrong. That being so, and prohibition being the best solution, why change it for a worse solution?

Right is not dependent on written law. The murder of Abel was wrong and was punished before the Ten Commandments were reduced to writing.

Prohibition of plural marriage long since passed out of the experimental stage and now is recognized as right by all except the criminal classes, though there was a time when highly respectable people both believed in and practiced it. One can readily imagine the furor a law prohibiting plural marriage would have created in Jerusalem in the days of King Solomon.

If I am elected, I will use my vote and influence to maintain and sustain the Snyder-Armstrong Prohibition Enforcement Act on the statute books without any crippling amendments, and I will vote against the elimination of the Eleventh Amendment from the Federal Constitution, if that question is voted upon while I am in the legislature.

I favor prohibition because I believe it is right.

Respectfully submitted,

HOOVER CAMP, RAPIDAN RIVER, Va., April 5.—A royal coachman slithered out over the stream bed of the Rapidan this morning, and the 1930 presidential trout fishing season formally was inaugurated.

For the benefit of the uninitiated, a "royal coachman" is a species of artificial fly designed to make a brook trout think one of the insects which hover over a blue mountain stream of an April day is a morning appetizer.

It was the type of fly attached to President Hoover's tackle today when he invaded the headquarters of his own private creek soon after an early breakfast and made his first serious try of the season, just opened, for brook trout.

As the day progressed, and as more likely pools were reached, the president switched to a grizzly king—also an artificial fly, of paler tint.

There was no doubt but what the chief executive was out for trout with vengeance, and it seemed the trout, lean from a long winter had similar designs on the inspired bait. Mr. Hoover and his companions had many strikes. The difficulty lay in selecting fish or suitable size for anglers of such prominence. The small ones were cast back; only those of eleven inches or more found their way into the creek.

Raskob Reveals Big Payment To Fight Dry Laws

John J. Raskob, Tells Committee He Donated $30,000 Yearly To Fight Prohibition

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, April 5.—While committee senators heatedly assailed each other, John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National committee, Friday told the Senate Lobby committee that he contributed $30,000 a year to the association against the prohibition amendment.

A series of clashes between Senator Robinson (R) of Ind., and Senators Caraway (D) of Ark., and Walsh (D) of Mont., overshadowed Raskob's testimony. Robinson, angered by interjections from the Democratic senators, announced he would appeal to the Senate for authority to question Raskob again. The Democrats provoked the clashes by objecting to Raskob being questioned about his affairs as Democratic national chairman.

The hearing nearly broke up on one occasion when Robinson asked Raskob "Do you intend to resign?" Before Raskob could reply Walsh ordered him to remain silent and attacked Robinson for asking the question. The Indiana Senator retorted that a similar question had been asked of Claudius H. Huston, Republican national chairman, and that he would ask the Senate for permission to put the same question to Raskob.

Raskob was queried at length about his connection with the association against the prohibition amendment. He said he had contributed $30,000 a year since 1928 and that Charles Sabin of New York, and Pierre DuPont, of Delaware, were other heavy contributors. He denied the association did any lobbying and insisted its only purpose was to "educate the people."

His testimony about his $30,000 annual contribution to the association's funds was interesting in view of the fact that the association has contributed campaign funds to both Republican and Democratic wet candidates for Congress. The committee failed to ask Raskob whether he knew his money was being used to help elect wet Republicans to Congress and the Democratic chairman did not mention that either.

Raskob said he did not know the association spent $468,000 last year and he professed to know little about its detailed activities. He said he did not mix his duties as Democratic national chairman and his relations with the anti-prohibition association.

There was far more excitement in the packed committee room over the clashes between senators than over Raskob's testimony. There were several exciting moments and one came when Caraway charged Robinson with "driving a senator to Europe." Robinson denied this and brought out that Caraway referred to Senator William H. King (D) of Utah, who was shown before the committee to have received and returned a check for $1,000 as a campaign contribution several years ago from Herman A. Metz, connected with a German dye industry.

Throughout the hearing Raskob remained calm and smiling while the interrogating senators were excited and angry. Their anger was directed at each other and not at Raskob.

Youth Admits To Starting Fires For Big Thrill

(International News Service) ALTOONA, Pa., April 5.—A young Hollidaysburg school boy, Benjamin Berthelmer, 11, today confessed that he "just couldn't help it" when he was arrested by state police and charged with setting five homes on fire.

"Something seemed to tell me set them on fire," the lad sobbed after he had been subjected to lengthy questioning by the policemen.

Benjamin was held at Altoona detention home where it was to be determined whether he should be charged with arson.

The fires all took place within a week in the Sixth ward of Hollidaysburg but the fire loss at each place was slight.

Pedestrians Compel Motorists To Stop

KITTANNING, Pa., April 5.—The Armstrong County Automobile association has written to state officials relative to pedestrians at Edgewood, Plumville, Leeburg and other towns in this vicinity who are said to have walked on highways and dared motorists to hit them.

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

"Please name the principal possessions of the United States and explain how they were acquired." has been the request of several followers of The Question Box.

Guam, the Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, the Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands and American Samoa are the principal possessions. The first three were acquired by the United States from Spain as a result of the Spanish-American war. They were ceded by the Treaty of Paris, Dec. 10, 1898.

The treaty of land comprising the Canal Zone was granted to the United States by Panama, by the treaty of Feb. 28, 1904.

Denmark sold the Virgin Islands to the United States for $25,000,000 in a treaty proclaimed Jan. 25, 1917.

American Samoa became a possession of the United States by virtue of the tripartite treaty with Great Britain and Germany in November, 1899.

Who was William Quantrell, and what became of him?

He was an American guerilla who became known for his raids and killings in eastern Kansas and western Missouri. Extending his activities into the state of Kentucky, he was finally outwitted and killed in 1864.

What is the Box bill?

This bill was introduced by Representative John C. Box, of the second district in Texas, in the house of representatives in February to provide quota limitations for immigrants from Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico and Cuba, to four times the number of American citizens departing therefor for permanent residence during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929.

When was ice first shipped as an article of commercial value, and who was the first to profit by such shipments?

Ice was first cut and shipped in 1799 from New York to Charleston. It was cut from a pond near Canal street, Frederic Tudor, of Boston, shipped a cargo of 130 tons to the West Indies in 1805. Despite early losses, he soon developed a monopoly in the southern countries and continued this profitable business until the artificial methods became practical.

How was the definite arrangement of the stars of the American flag determined, and by whom?

Prior to October 26, 1912, there was no rule for determining the arrangement of the stars. On that date the late William H. Taft, then president, issued an executive order that the stars should be arranged in six rows of eight stars in the order of the states, ratification of the constitution.

Peter's Adventures

LOOKS LIKE A "PUG-DOG"

Dragon-Fly came to a stop in the middle of his story, and at the most exciting spot. Peter, impatient, urged him to go on, but not until the fellow was good and ready did he take up his tale.

"And then we dig the hooks on our legs firmly into the matter," continued Dragon-Fly, "and no matter how we turn and twist and pull, these hooks hold us fast to the stops of the stems that stick out of the water. But I'm not going to tell you another thing, Boy! Why should I, when you can see what happens next, for yourself? Look! There is the very fellow who told me he was going to cast his skin today, and if I know anything at all about such matters he is just about ready to do so now. This next moment. Use your eyes, Young Human, and I'll bet you a fat minnow you will never see such a sight again in your life. I will introduce you to Larva so he will not think you are a stranger and put off his performance. But we will have to hurry, for he'll not be a Larva much longer. Step lively, Boy!"

Peter "stepped lively" after the Dragon-Fly, who had already started down the bank of the pool, and when he rounded a bend the boy saw a queer creature clinging to the top of a stem in a clump of weeds that grew close to shore. To tell the truth, the fellow looked like no insect Peter had ever seen before. He had a face that looked exactly like a pug dog's. His head was large and flat, his eyes were dull and his jaws were as wicked as a pug's.

He was found in insectland. As Peter started at the fellow he noticed a lower lip tucked away under the insect's chin. Suddenly the queer one thrust out this lower lip, and to his horror Peter recognized it at once as the prey-catching trap he had heard about. The Boy was mighty glad he stood so near the fierce creature.

"Cousin, this is our friend, the Boy!" shrieked Dragon-Fly, and at this greeting the insect with a pug-dog's face pulled back his trap of a lip and tucked it into place under his chin.

Foster's Weather Forecast

WASHINGTON, April 5.—First fifteen days of April are expected to average below normal temperatures, above normal storm force and above normal precipitation generally over the continent of North America. Moderately severe storm wave, expected to cross continent during week ending on April 4 will move well down into southern states, but will not be expected to cause damaging temperatures in cotton belt. Moderate storm wave centering on 10 will also be a cold storm center, but conditions will be unfavorable for damaging temperatures to occur during storm period. After April 15, precipitation will be expected to decrease and evaporation increase in western Great Central valleys; as sub-soil moisture is now scarce in that area, this will probably bring on conditions very unfavorable to crops in western Great Central valleys that need considerable moisture. Ground in this area that has not sufficient moisture by April 15 will not have much chance to accumulate sub-soil moisture after that date. Storms centering on April 4 and 10 will be expected to be the most severe during the month and will cause most precipitation.

When writing these bulletins, the terms storm wave, storm period and storm center are used; when a storm or other weather feature is mentioned to center on a given date, that weather feature is expected to cross 90th meridian on that date, the term STORM WAVE includes low barometer storm center, warm wave that usually comes in advance of such a storm center and drop in temperatures that usually follows such a storm center; the average storm period covers three and one-half days; over a long period of time, storms average three and one-half days between their centers.

An American astronomer claims that he has discovered a new planet in our solar system; a German astronomer says he has discovered four new planets. These planets, whether one or four, are so far distant that their influence would hardly be noticeable in effect on cropweather or other changes within the Earth's envelope. Their circuit of the Sun takes so many years that their influence would not be repeated within the life span of man. Their distance from the sun is so great that their mass is not sufficient to have a material effect upon the inner planets, Uranus and Neptune, comparatively small planets, have been sufficiently influenced to give the location of these new planets, but that influence, when applied to the Earth, or other inner planets, would be weakened by the immense distance these new planets are from our sun. We must not forget that our SUN is the controlling influence.

Highland Teacher Tells Of Reading Methods Of Today

The teaching of English in the elementary school of today is made to fit the needs of the pupil in his everyday life. Practical usage, rather than formal grammar is stressed. Formal grammar being left to the upper grades, "States R. S. Leslie, principal of the Highland school.

Both the constructive and corrective aspects of language teaching are emphasized. The pupil may be very limited in his ability to express himself and often may have acquired incorrect forms of expression. The teacher's problem is to help the child acquire new, correct forms of expression and to discontinue the old, erroneous ones that have become habitual.

In the following articles, Miss Tresser of the Highland School, who is highly successful in the teaching of English in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades describes modern methods.

"Today it is the aim of the curriculum in English to organize the course of study on the basis of life uses. The function of language in the elementary school is to enable the child to express himself adequately and effectively in speech and in writing.

"Oral English is most frequently used by the elementary pupil and should therefore receive the greater amount of attention. Written activities consist primarily of the writing of letters, reports and short essays in the lower grades, although abundant opportunity for it is provided for gifted individuals. In other words the most stress is placed upon the type of English which will be called for in real life situations. The course of study must be and is, entirely practical.

"Since the most important thing in life for a child is the ability to express himself and to understand the ideas in his mind as well as his every day desires, much drill in oral English is necessary. However this drill is not tedious. It is at all times interesting and in many instances dramatic. For instance, two children meet on the street and exchange greetings, and carry on a short conversation. The other members of the class listen and criticize. Three pupils may play at using the telephone. One is "Central" while another, after asking for and receiving the proper number, talks to the third child representing his mother, the grocer, the butcher of a friend. Politeness as well as English is taught by the use of these methods.

"The clear giving of directions and explanations is also taught. The pupil imagines he is telling a stranger how to go to the Court House from the West Side Station, or how to reach the Jameson Memorial Hospital from the City Building as a starting point. One child may explain how she baked a cake for a birthday surprise for her mother and another how he built an airplane. All these call for discussion on the part of the class and give constant practice in speaking.

"At certain times, the telling of stories and anecdotes is used as a vehicle of expression. To some this may seem foolish. However, think how often the ability to entertain in this way has been of use to adults at social functions, on the train, at the dinner table, at public meetings and to cheer friends sick or in trouble. Many a man owes his popularity and his reputation for coping with difficult situations to just this ability. Another use of oral English is the making of announcements. One child announces to the class a coming game, lecture, exhibit or other entertainment.

"Verbs and their proper use always give trouble to the beginner in English. So, about the room, on cards or charts, are displayed the principal forms of the most useful verbs. As conversations take place the pupil glances at the forms and gets a mind picture of the verb. To supplement this, drill cards with omitted verbs are used weekly to give practice in correct forms.

"Next in importance is the teaching of written English. First, of course, come letters of a social or business nature, because everyone makes use of these two forms of expression. Then there are written notices to be posted upon the bulletin board announcing entertainments, games et cetera. Reviews of books, articles and plays are written by members of the class. They must learn to take notes properly for the preparations of papers, stories and reports. Another important step in written English is the ability to fill out forms such as mail order blanks, applications for money orders, deposit slips, checks, information blanks or questionnaires, telegrams or cablegrams. All these things are part of everyday life and therefore are of great importance in the proper preparation for life. Then as mentioned before, there is opportunity given for creative and imaginative writing, such as poems, stories, plays, articles for school or local papers and diaries. In all these ways the children are taught to organize and express their thoughts with ease in written form.

"One interesting way in which both oral and written English are used is by means of original plays. The pupils write conversational or health plays in English class and then the best are produced in the dramatics rooms. Naturally there is keen competition in this activity.

"Another method of correlating the two forms of English is as follows: Stories without punctuation are photographed and given out to be corrected. When completed the reason for the use of such mark is given orally and thus sentence sense is developed.

"There are many other educational principles involved in the proper teaching of English. Geographical and historical material is often used as a foundation for original compositions. So the pupil often must make use of the dictionary, encyclopedia and sometimes even of the card files at the library. Spelling and penmanship are intimately connected with written English. Legibility and the ability to spell the words of one's writing vocabulary cannot be stressed too strongly. On the other hand, correct pronunciation and voice tone are important when expressing ideas orally. Parliamentary drill is another phase of English used of course only in the upper grades. This drill is of inestimable value in later life as every adult connected with public life or even in private clubs can testify.

"This course of study, briefly described here, has been mapped out by a committee of elementary English teachers and the various school principals of the city of New Castle. In such an article it is impossible to show the full scope of the methods or to comment adequately upon the results obtained. However, the corps of teachers who have in their hands the training in English of the boys and girls of New Castle's elementary grades have certain aims always before them. They feel it their duty to teach proper choice of adjectives, verbs and synonyms as well as their correct use; to give plenty of practice in connected talking and writing; to build up a vocabulary, both written and oral; to train the mind to handle a single phase of a subject and stick to the point; to train the child to organize his thought before expressing it, so that thoughts previously expressed; to eliminate non-essential details, sentences and words. The effective use of English depends upon the formation of good habits of thinking, speaking and writing. The knowledge of laws and principles or memorizing of rules can never replace constant practice in speaking and writing. To center this speaking and writing around the practical life needs of the pupil, and thus hold his attention and interest, as well as train his mind is the aim of the teachers of elementary English in the New Castle school system."

THE DAY

THE DAY

In the life of everyone there comes a day when cash in bank is absolutely necessary.

By depositing every dollar possible in bank and holding part of it in reserve here, when adversity comes it need not overcome. In the great Day of Need the accounts of some people are as empty as Mother Hubbard's cupboard.

Mae West And Her Company Freed Of Giving "Bad" Play

When Jury Fails To Agree, Prosecutor Moves That Indictments Be Quashed

By DAVIS P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 5.—The case against Mae West and 23 defendants charged with giving an obscene play was wiped off the legal books Friday.

District attorney Thomas C. Crain announced that the case would not be tried again. A jury split fifty-fifty and reported they could not agree on a verdict at the trial of the Battalion of actors and actresses, all members of the cast of "Pleasure Man."

The district attorney decided there was small chance of a conviction at another trial.

Mae West, three years ago tomorrow, was sent to jail for ten days for giving an immoral performance in her play "Sex."

The blonde actress declared she was returning to Broadway soon with two more plays, one of which would have a "moral."

U. S. Navy No Longer Accepts "Bad Boys" As Gob Recruits

By WILLIAM PARKER
U. S. S. TENNESSEE, April 5.—The days when wild boys were sent to the navy to be reformed are over.

Physical, mental and moral standards have been raised and, by and large, the men of the navy are more temperate and ambitious than similar groups of the same age "on the beach," as the navy refers to the land.

If the public sees a couple of good-natured blue jackets singing in the rain and exhibiting other signs of intemperance, the navy men, in turn, asked what happens after a college football game.

Boys who return to ship after shore leave are carefully looked over by a lanky sergeant at arms. If they are intoxicated they are sent to the brig (jail) and come before the captain at "mast" the next morning. "Mast" is the lower or discipline court of the ship. If it is one of the ship's athletes who is up for intoxication he will not touch liquor again after he hears the captain's tongue lashing, and the captain's statement of statistical facts of the effect of alcohol on an athlete.

It is not yet generally known on land that the navy will not allow bad boys to remain in service. There is going on at this time an acrimonious correspondence between the captain of a battleship and a superior court judge in a western state.

A blue-jacket was convicted in the superior court for stealing a watch. The judge paroled the boy to the ship's captain. The captain promptly summoned the boy and witnesses before a court martial and he was promptly dismissed from the navy. The judge learned of this action and wrote an indignant protest to the captain. The captain in reply wrote the judge asking how he would like to have bad boys of the navy turned over to the court to be reformed.

Due to the present selective methods of obtaining men, the number of desertions decreased from approximately 7,000 yearly in past years to 450 last year.

One of the principal evils, enlisted men learn, is the "shore harpie." She encourages the men to drink, keeps them intoxicated until she has gotten all of their money and they have overstayed their leave. The men then are listed as deserters. The "shore harpie" notifies the ship where a man is and collects $25 reward.

Men for the navy are recruited from five areas, which cover the United States. After the application is signed the applicant is not taken into service immediately. A confidential report is obtained from his last school teacher and last employer. In addition, he must measure up to certain physical and mental requirements. Increased thoroughness at recruiting stations has materially reduced the number of misfits.

Each recruit also must obtain the consent of his parents or guardian before he is accepted. This automatically eliminates runaway boys, and young thieves who are dodging the police.

Before being placed aboard ship, enlisted men are sent to training stations and trade schools. Here they indicate their preference in professions and thereafter specialize in that work.

At the training stations the enlisted men are taught to forget they are civilians. They are instructed in obedience, deportment, hygiene, care of person and clothes. There also follows an aptitude and intelligence test.

After four or more months the enlisted men come aboard ship and are put under instruction of a commissioned officer, usually a lieutenant. They are kept away from the seasoned crew to avoid hazing, for even a blue-jacket likes to have fun at the expense of a raw recruit. They are made acquainted with every section and detail of the ship.

There are thirty such youths aboard the U. S. Tennessee.

Once in the navy, it is possible for a youth who has had a high school education to rise to the highest rank, that of admiral although there is at present no admiral who has come up from ranks.

By passing specified examinations, men are enabled to go to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, there to become officers, or as a high navy official, once said, "officers and gentlemen."

Drive Home Moral Issue Constantly

Your child or mine believes that certain things are right and that certain things are wrong. These moral judgments gradually grow in number and in certainty from early childhood. They more or less control his conduct.

Where does he get his notions of rightness and wrongness? From other persons—chiefly from those of his family.

He does not always do what he knows is right. Neither do you and I. But he makes no effort certainly to avoid what we consider wrong if he thinks it right.

Long before the child makes conscious moral judgments he learns to do from habit many things. If these habits are good ones, he has been practicing in doing right long before he knows he is doing right; then as soon as he reflects upon the wrongness or the rightness of his acts his notions of right and his habits of doing right tend to agree.

But he is not a moral creature except as he makes choices and deliberately decides for himself many things he will do or not do. Those things he has done which have given him satisfaction he is likely to do again. Our task as parents is to help our child find it pleasant to do what we consider right, and unpleasant to do what we consider wrong.

Hour by hour and day by day with us, he just discovers about as unconsciously as he breathes our ideals concerning right and wrong. Of course he is not always with us. He mingles with other children, who have acquired from their own parents some moral standards which we consider wrong. The more our child admires these other children and more likely is he to accept their ideals and to imitate their habits.

How far our influence will be ahead will depend upon the kind of habits we have cultivated in the child, particularly in the early age, and the esteem he has for us.

If he likes us well enough, and if we are sufficiently skillful we can do more than just expose him to the best in us. We deliberately can make him happily aware that some things are right and some are wrong. There is a place for precept. It is all a matter of our knowing just where that place is. If we preach to the child continuously, if we annoy him by moralizing, he turns a deaf ear or even learns to hate some of the very things we most want him to admit and wish to struggle to attain.

We must remember that many of the things we consider right do not at first prove pleasant to the child. Now the child who does not have any bad habits of action in his way, and who greatly admires us, may so enjoy our approval as to choose to do right even at the cost of considerable effort.

Parents as well as teachers have so often seen precepts fall on stony ground that they are likely to swing almost entirely any efforts to give direct moral instruction.

I am very sure too, that many of us parents often miss opportunities to drive home a moral issue and to help make our child interested in making moral judgment. There are many occasions when we might calmly say with good effect: "That is right, this is wrong," and even to show why. What do you think about this matter?

Tomorrow: Dangers of Children.

It's wise to choose a SIX!

After all, it is a perfectly simple matter to decide which automobile you want to buy. Only two questions must be answered to your satisfaction—

First: Which car gives the most for my money?

Second: Which car represents the soundest investment from the standpoint of satisfaction and pride of ownership?

Six-Cylinder Motor

In buying a low-priced car consider the following facts:

It is wise to choose a six-cylinder motor—for in order to get six-cylinder smoothness, it is necessary to have six cylinders.

Six-cylinder smoothness takes out vibration and roughness. This saves the motor, the whole chassis, the body, the passengers, and the driver. Drivers who try six cylinders never want less.

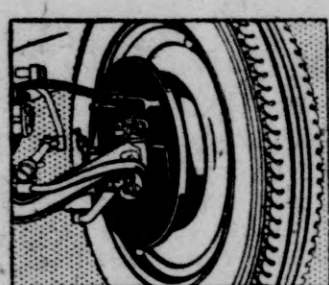

The Chevrolet is a six. And yet it sells at a price that anyone can afford to pay.

This very low-priced car lasts longer, not only because of fine materials and over-size parts, but also because it is a six. The big, smooth, 50-horsepower six-cylinder Chevrolet engine is always "taking it easy." From crawling to racing speeds, everything is smooth. There is no feeling of strain.

With all its six-cylinder smoothness and power the New Chevrolet Six uses no extra gasoline or oil. Modern efficiency in design makes this possible—overhead valves—high compression power from ordinary fuel—very latest high-acceleration carburetor—close-fitting, long-wearing pistons—crankcase ventilation—air cleaner. You can really have extreme economy and still satisfy your modern performance ideals. Chevrolet brings truly modern transportation within reach of all who can afford any car. Chevrolet economy is the mark of Chevrolet sincerity in manufacture. To illustrate:

Chevrolet valves are readily accessible and easily adjustable—a feature not usually found on cars of low price. This not only saves the cost of replacing valves, but it also makes it possible to preserve quiet, economical, efficient motor operation.

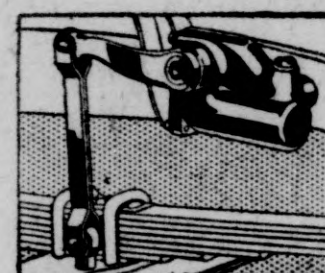

Fully Enclosed Brakes

A similar example is found in Chevrolet's molded brake lining. In careful tests at the General Motors Proving Ground this lining has lasted over 25,000 miles of usage—reducing the necessity of frequent replacement, and consequent expense.

Furthermore, there is a rear axle inspection plate on the Chevrolet. This makes it unnecessary to take the axle apart to examine or clean it.

The Chevrolet Six is full of such evidence that true economy comes from advancement and refinement.

Delco-Lovejoy Shock Absorbers

Like all the finest cars, the Chevrolet Six provides the comfort and protection of four extra-long, chrome-vanadium springs that are controlled by hydraulic shock absorbers. They are mounted lengthwise, in the direction of car travel, and self-adjusting spring shackles are used for lasting quiet.

With modern low suspension and extra wheelbase, the Chevrolet Six has the fundamentals of modern motor car beauty.

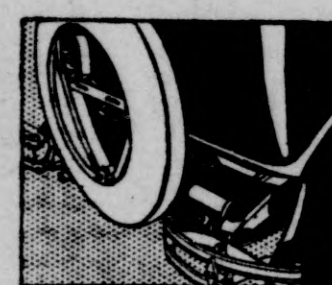

It is long, low and properly proportioned.

ROADSTER OR PHAETON

$495

F. O. B. FACTORY, FLINT, MICHIGAN

The impressive front view is distinguished by the genuine honeycomb radiator, another mark of modern cars.

Safety Gasoline Tank

The gasoline tank is mounted in the rear. This not only increases the safety of the passengers, but results in finer appearance.

Chevrolet beauty instantly says "Body by Fisher." Body by Fisher means the style of the costliest cars. But it means much more—permanent quiet, sturdiness, balance and safety, made possible only by Fisher composite steel-and-wood construction.

Body by Fisher gives you a genuine non-glare windshield, as in the finest cars. It gives you an adjustable driver's seat, used in every luxury car. The New Chevrolet Six gives you more seat space, deeper cushions, greater leg room, clearer vision, finer fabrics and fitments.

You can actually see all the extra value of Chevrolet-Fisher bodies. And there is just as much extra value everywhere in the car. By actual count of modern features—by actual measure of value—by actual weight—by actual scientific test—AND BY ANY MODERN STANDARD OF PERFORMANCE the Chevrolet Six is the greatest value in the low-price field.

It is wise to choose the Chevrolet Six with its six-cylinder valve-in-head motor . . . with full scientific equipment . . . with its Body by Fisher . . . with four long semi-elliptic springs, long wheelbase, low suspension, rear-mounted gasoline tank, honeycomb radiator and all the other features of this day and age.

See your nearest Chevrolet dealer today and drive a Chevrolet Six. Ten minutes at the wheel will show you what a difference six cylinders make.

Banquet Event Friday Evening

Physical Department Of Y. M. C. A. Banquets At Association—Awards Made

J. TRUITT MAXWELL
EVENING'S SPEAKER

Climaxing a season of thorough gymnasium work which commenced early last fall and continued full blast up until the colorful gymnastic exhibition of a week ago, was the annual banquet of physical department members of the local Y. M. C. A. held Friday night in the upstairs dining room of the association's building.

It marked an appropriate ending to what was perhaps the most successful gym season of the local "Y" for the percentage of attendance in the classes this year was noticeably larger than any heretofore, or within the past few years. There was a manifestation of this interest last night by the presence of more than 100 gymnasium men.

Promptly at 6:45 the men sat down around the festive board, after invocation had been asked by the Rev. Samuel L. Maxwell, pastor of the Epworth M. E. church and active participant in "Y" gymnastic activities. A most sumptuous dinner was served.

Throughout the dinner Prof. R. E. Johns, local chorister, spiced things up with pep songs that he led, with Kenneth Myers tickling the ivories. Another period of pep singing came after the dinner.

Maxwell Speaker
At the speaker's table with the honor guest, J. Truitt Maxwell, director of physical education for the Y. M. C. A. of Pennsylvania were those actively affiliated with the "Y" and members of the board of directors.

Mr. Maxwell was the speaker of the evening. He described how he had seen the evolution of basketball from a game similar to football to that what it is today. His descriptions of some of the early games were amusing and illustrated out the contrast between those of years ago and the scientifically played games of the present day. He said it was worse with volleyball for no one would volunteer to play it then, thinking it a game for only muddled heads. It was early nicknamed "molley ball."

However, since that day there has been a great transition and volleyball is followed with interest in many countries of the world, not only ours. The game has become just as scientific and requires as much stamina as any, Mr. Maxwell declared. He considers it one of the most popular games and gives as a reason for this the fact that it is a game that can be carried over into later life. Basketball, football and those others are too hard on the man above 40 or more, but volleyball ball is not.

In conclusion, he asked "why do we play volleyball, basketball or these other games?" Answering it himself he said that some do for the exercise, some for the sociability you get out of it, some for the physical excellence. The real and prime motive for so doing he said should be to develop our minds, hands, arms and feet to coordinate. It teaches us how much to give and how much to take.

Alec Samuels, member of the physical department council was next introduced. He presented the year's trophies for bowling and basketball. The first Christian church winning the bowling championship of the city during the past winter and the Central Christians taking city honors in the basketball section. W. J. Conner accepted the bowling trophy and Mike Paulini, captain of the Central Christians team accepted his team's cup. Both responded briefly as they accepted the cups.

Mr. Samuels' presentations concluded the evening's program and Physical Director Henry MacNichols then dismissed the men.

Mooney Is Facing Toughest Part Of Cross-Nation Hop

A. W. Mooney, Wichita Flier, Trying For Record May Hit Mountain Region Tonight

(International News Service)
BELLEFONTE, Pa., April 5.—A. W. Mooney, Wichita airplane manufacturer attempting a transcontinental flight, is not expected to arrive over "Hell Stretch" in Pennsylvania until late tonight, airport officials here told International News Service today.

"We are about two hours from New York," the officials said, "and if Mooney passed over the Allegheny mountains, he should pass over here between nine and ten o'clock tonight at the earliest. Of course, if he hits a good tail wind, we can expect him at the earlier hour."

Mooney thus would be winging his way through the darkness over one of the most hazardous terrains faced by aviators. The Allegheny mountains, rugged and menacing, extend practically from Pittsburgh to a few miles east of the government airport here.

The community Bible study classes, which have been conducted each Tuesday evening in the Y. W. C. A. the past winter by Rev. G. S. Bennett of the First Christian church, will be brought to a close Tuesday evening, with Dr. Bennett using the events of Passion week as the concluding lesson.

The lessons have proved of great benefit to the large class which has been in attendance all winter and it is hoped at the beginning of next fall they will be resumed.

Dynamiter Found Guilty Of Murder

Wilkes-Barre Man Alleged To Have Taken Part In Alden Coal Payroll Robbery Convicted

(International News Service)
WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 5.—Death in the electric chair faced Sigmund "Big Joe" Szachewicz of Wilkes-Barre, today, following a verdict of guilty returned late yesterday by the jury trying him for murder in connection with the dynamiting of the pay car of the Glen Alden Coal Co., at Warrior Run last January 13 which killed four guards on the car. Commonwealth witnesses had failed to identify Big Joe as the man they saw running from the scene immediately following the terrific blast, but the defendant's confession presented by the State Police, convinced the jury.

Repudiates Confession
The defendant repudiated the confession, charging on the stand that it had been obtained by a police officer. Police witnesses for the State stoutly maintained that the confession came of his own free will during the time he was detained at the barracks for questioning after he came under suspicion.

"Tex" Nafus, alleged accomplice of the doomed man, is also under indictment for murder and will be tried here in Luzerne county criminal court.

The dynamiting was one of the most atrocious crimes in the history of Luzerne county.

The motive was robbery, with $32,000 carried by the pay car as the hoped for loot.

Pittsburgh Woman Attacked By Thug Severely Slashed

Woman Awakened By Robber In Home, Refuses To Give Him Money, Is Slashed

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, April 5.—Dragged from her bed, slashed on the face and wrists with a penknife, and fired upon, Mrs. Ethel Saygigia, 23, was today confined to bed at her home, the victim of an unidentified, prowling robber.

Neighbors attracted by her screams rushed to her home and called police, to whom the woman told her story.

She said she was awakened from her sleep by the bandit, who flourished a gun at her and ordered her to turn over an evasive answer. He became enraged, she said, dragged her roughly from her bed, slashed her three times on each cheek and then on the wrists. He then pulled her to the first floor of the house when she told him where her purse was. He got but $1.37 from this.

When she attempted to run upstairs then, she said, he fired at her. Mrs. Saygigia's husband was not at home at the time and her two small children were asleep in the next room. Police were unable to find evidence that a shot had been fired and Mrs. Saygigia was unable to give a description of the man.

The house met at 12 o'clock, noon. The chaplain, Rev. James Shera Montgomery, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Merciful Father in Heaven, do Thou bring Thy truth to the understanding and to the consciences of this chosen assembly of public servants. While it is weakened and made imperfect by our interpretation, do Thou inspire it and give it direction in all our deliberations. O Thou from whose example we learn to love and to sacrifice, may Thy high spiritual qualities be expressed in our lives, and teach us to promote peace and good will among our fellow men. Bring us at last through joy and through sorrow to Thine own blessed immortality. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

"McCormack" Does Not Choose To Sing

(International News Service)
PEORIA, Ill., April 5.—John McCormack firmly believes there's little in a name.

John, pale and disheveled, stood before Police Magistrate Hall, showing the usual "morning after" haggardness.

"I'm John McCormack," he stated. "I've heard your records," the jurist remarked. "I'm for letting you go but you'd better prove your identity first."

"Ain't my name enough?" John demanded.

"What's in a name?" Judge Hall wanted to know. "You could convince me thoroughly if you'd render 'Mother Machree' like it is on your record."

McCormack's grin faded.

"I guess I'd better pay my fine," he remarked ruefully.

The Story Of American Industry
Early Steam Engines In America

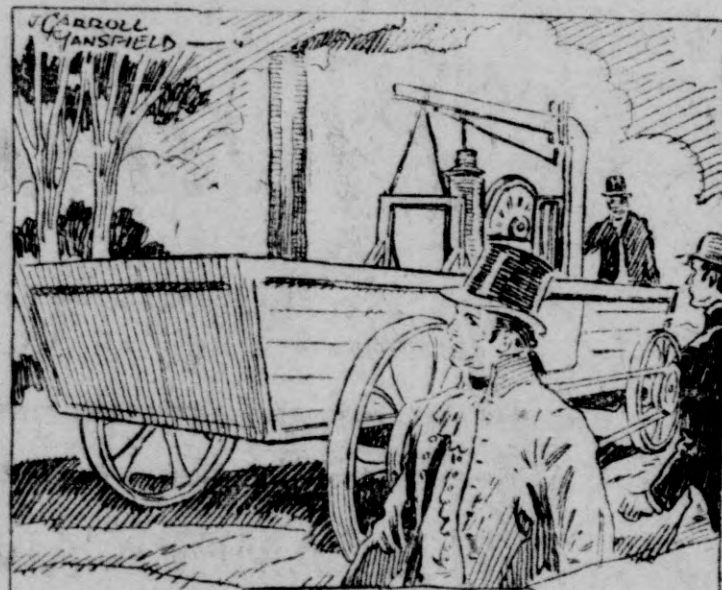

AFTER JAMES WATT'S STEAM ENGINE HAD BEEN INTRODUCED INTO THE UNITED STATES, AMERICAN ENGINEERS MADE MANY IMPROVEMENTS UPON IT. IN 1781, JONATHAN HORN-BLOWER INVENTED THE COMPOUND ENGINE. IT HAD TWO CYLINDERS, AND COULD DO TWICE AS MUCH WORK AS A ONE-CYLINDER ENGINE WITHOUT USING MORE STEAM.

ONE OF THE GREATEST OF THE EARLY AMERICAN INVENTORS AND ENGINEERS WAS OLIVER EVANS OF PHILADELPHIA. IN 1799, EVANS, ALREADY FAMOUS AS THE CREATOR OF DEVICES THAT HAD REVOLUTIONIZED WATER POWER MILLING, INVENTED THE HIGH PRESSURE STEAM ENGINE. THE TUBULAR BOILER WAS ANOTHER OF HIS INVENTIONS.

WATT'S ENGINES HAD BEEN USED ONLY FOR PUMPING WATER, BUT EVANS APPLIED HIS OWN ENGINES TO RUNNING ALL KINDS OF MILLING MACHINERY AND, LATER, TO PROPELLING STEAM BOATS. EVANS ESTABLISHED A FACTORY IN PHILADELPHIA, WHERE HE TURNED OUT ENGINES AND OTHER DEVICES HE HAD DESIGNED.

THE MOST CURIOUS OF EVANS' MANY INVENTIONS WAS THE "ORUKTOR AMPHIBOLUS" (1804), A STEAM DREDGE THAT MOVED BY ITS OWN POWER. HE ALSO MOVED WAGONS BY STEAM. EVANS AND WATT DIED IN THE SAME YEAR, 1819.

Fourteen Teams To Play Mushball Here This Summer

Outlook Good For Successful Mushball League Here Radiators Join

MEETING CALLED FOR MONDAY NIGHT

New Castle is taking to mushball like ducks take to water. Litterly speaking, mushball was only started last year in this city and there were eight teams in the league that was organized. Today there are fourteen teams ready to start play for the flag in the Industrial Mushball League. An increase of six teams is very gratifying to the officials of the league.

The latest team to enter the field is the National Radiator Works. Ralph Boisinger was very enthusiastic over the Radiator team joining the league and immediately purchased a supply of balls and bats and had some of the boys out for rehearsal yesterday afternoon.

The Bell Telephone team with Davis as co-manager came into the fold in the morning, which makes the league's growth two teams a day. The more the merrier.

Meeting Called Monday President Walther has called a special meeting of the league managers for Monday night at 7 o'clock at The News office. The meeting is to talk over the buying of supplies for the league and also to discuss the playing fields. So far two fields have been secured, the Lehigh Cement Field and the National Radiator Field. Through Superintendent "Bob" Tully, the Carnegie playgrounds has also been offered the league. There is a movement under way to secure if possible a field on the North Hill, and this may be accomplished very shortly.

The following teams are in the Industrial Mushball League: Lehigh Cement, Shenango Tin Mill, National Radiators, Bell Telephone, Bankers, Phalanx, Haney's, Richmans, Spencer's, Post Office, Firemen, Penn-Ohio Electric, News No. 1 and News No. 2.

Gerson-Temples End Fine Basketball Year

Temple Israel's Finish Second In New Castle Church League—Fine Record at Youngstown

Local Jewish Boys Win 27 Games And Lose 12 During Past Successful Season

The Temple Israel team which was also known as the Gerson Jewellers has completed a most successful basketball season. The Jewish Boys' club of their 1929-30 season with 27 victories and lost 12 in a 39 game schedule this year. The record stands as a great achievement.

In the competition in the New Castle Church League, the Temple Israel team won 21 games and lost 1. This one defeat was handed by the Central Christians by a score of 24-23 and later in the season, the Jewish Boys evened the series up by defeating the Central Christians after they have gone undefeated over 60 some Church League games by a score of 9-8 and this sent both teams to a play off for the New Castle Church League Championship, in which the Temples were defeated in two straight games.

Outside of this league, the Temples went under the name of the Gerson Jewellers, being sponsored by Jack Gerson, North Mercer St. Jeweler. In the Jewish League at Youngstown, Ohio, the Gersons won 5 and lost 4 in league competition. Much of the success of the team this year goes to Keith VanFossan, the coach. The Gersons feel that they were very fortunate in having a man like VanFossan lead them. The team also feels proud of having a good sport like Jack Gerson to back the team up. Every man of the team thanks him greatly.

"Sac" Levin High Scorer Harry Davis, energetic manager of the team also deserves a lot of credit for his arranging independent games besides fixing up schedules in both leagues and the team also arranged by Harry made one of the longest trips this season the team ever made, taking them down to Akron, Ohio, where they played the Y. M. H. A. of Akron, Ohio and the locals won.

The Gerson Jewellers and Temple combined scored a total of 824 points this year against 642 for their opponents. The leading scorers of the team are "Sac" Levin, lanky center with 152 points, Captain "Eph" Solomon gave him a close race with 150 points. The Gersons combined had 311 field goals and 202 out of 403 fouls. Hyman Levine, stellar guard of the team deserves credit for his foul shooting, casing 32 out of 56.

Gridders Have Signal Drills

New Castle High Candidates Go Through Long Workout On Friday

Signal drills lasting over one hour, along with calisthenics, kicking and throwing the ball constituted the workout for the New Castle high school 1930 candidates on Friday afternoon at Taggart Field. The spring training season which started on Tuesday is proving quite lengthy every night.

For the past three days the boys have been on the field for over one hour and one half. Assistant Coach "Gig" Thomas was in charge on Friday. Head Coach Bridenbaugh was called out of the city. Coach Thomas first let the gridders kick and pass the ball then sent them through some exercises. Following this he picked out four teams and sent them through signal drills.

On the first team were Rowe and Ostrosky at ends, Criscl and Askounes at tackles, Jamison and Janovick at guards, Jamison at center, and Fabian, Nick Uram, Lasky, and Bender in the back field. "Red" McAuley last year's signal barker has not reported for training yet. Fred Pabian at fullback looks good so far.

Grove City Track Prospects Bright

Indications Point To Fine Track Season For Grove City College

GROVE CITY, Pa., April 5.—Track prospects at Grove City College are unusually bright, report Coaches McGovern and Burrows, who state that the combination of a veteran squad and an early season start has given the Crimson athletes a promising outlook for the spring campaign. The Groves are one month ahead of any previous year, it is reported, and the track and field pits are in excellent condition.

Opening with an intra-mural meet on April 26, Grove City will compete in four intercollegiate contests. The first two meets are at Grove City with Waynesburg here on May 3, and Juniata May 10. The next Saturday, May 17, the squad will meet Allegheny at Meadville, and on May 23, Carnegie Tech. at Pittsburgh. The Crimson athletes have hopes of a clean sweep in the four meets.

Fred Pusch and Jim Bartlebaugh head a galaxy of star athletes who will wear the Crimson this spring. Pusch is an all-around star, taking part in both track and field competition. From last year's squad, the greatest loss was suffered in the graduation of Jim Evers, who captained the squad for two years and was undefeated in distance events during his college course. Schultz, Day, and Whitehill are not available this year.

Connor and Burke are the veteran high jumpers, with Cleveland, Jones, and Osborne completing the group. Bartlebaugh and Thomas are the leading broad jumpers, and new candidates are McKenna, Paganelli, and Johnston. Pole vaulters are Pusch, Allison, Eakin, and Graham. In the shot event, Pusch and Sofish are already doing 40 feet, while Critchfield, Cantoni, and Huston complete the squad. Frank Gregory is throwing the javelin 180 feet, and other candidates are Shirling, C. Gregory, Bradman, and Raplenovic. Pusch and Huston lead the discus throwers. The sprints are led by Pusch and Bartlebaugh, Reeves, the hurdlers; Arnold, the half-milers; and Atwell, the distance runners.

"Kid" Berg Keeps His Title Intact

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 5.—Jack (Kid) Berg of England is still the world's junior welterweight champion today but he had a narrow escape from temporary ring oblivion at least last night in his ten round battle with Joe Glick, rugged New Yorker, a referee and two judges were unanimous in giving Berg the decision after one of the most bitterly fought affairs the Garden has recently staged.

Schmeling Favors Stroudsburg Site For His Training

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 5.—C. L. Edinger, mayor of Stroudsburg, Pa., today appeared to have waged a successful fight for the honor of entertaining Max Schmeling, German boxer, when he trains for his bout here this summer with Jack Sharkey. "Billy" McCarney, New York representative of Edinger's offer and that the German Dempsey would probably establish his camp at Stroudsburg.

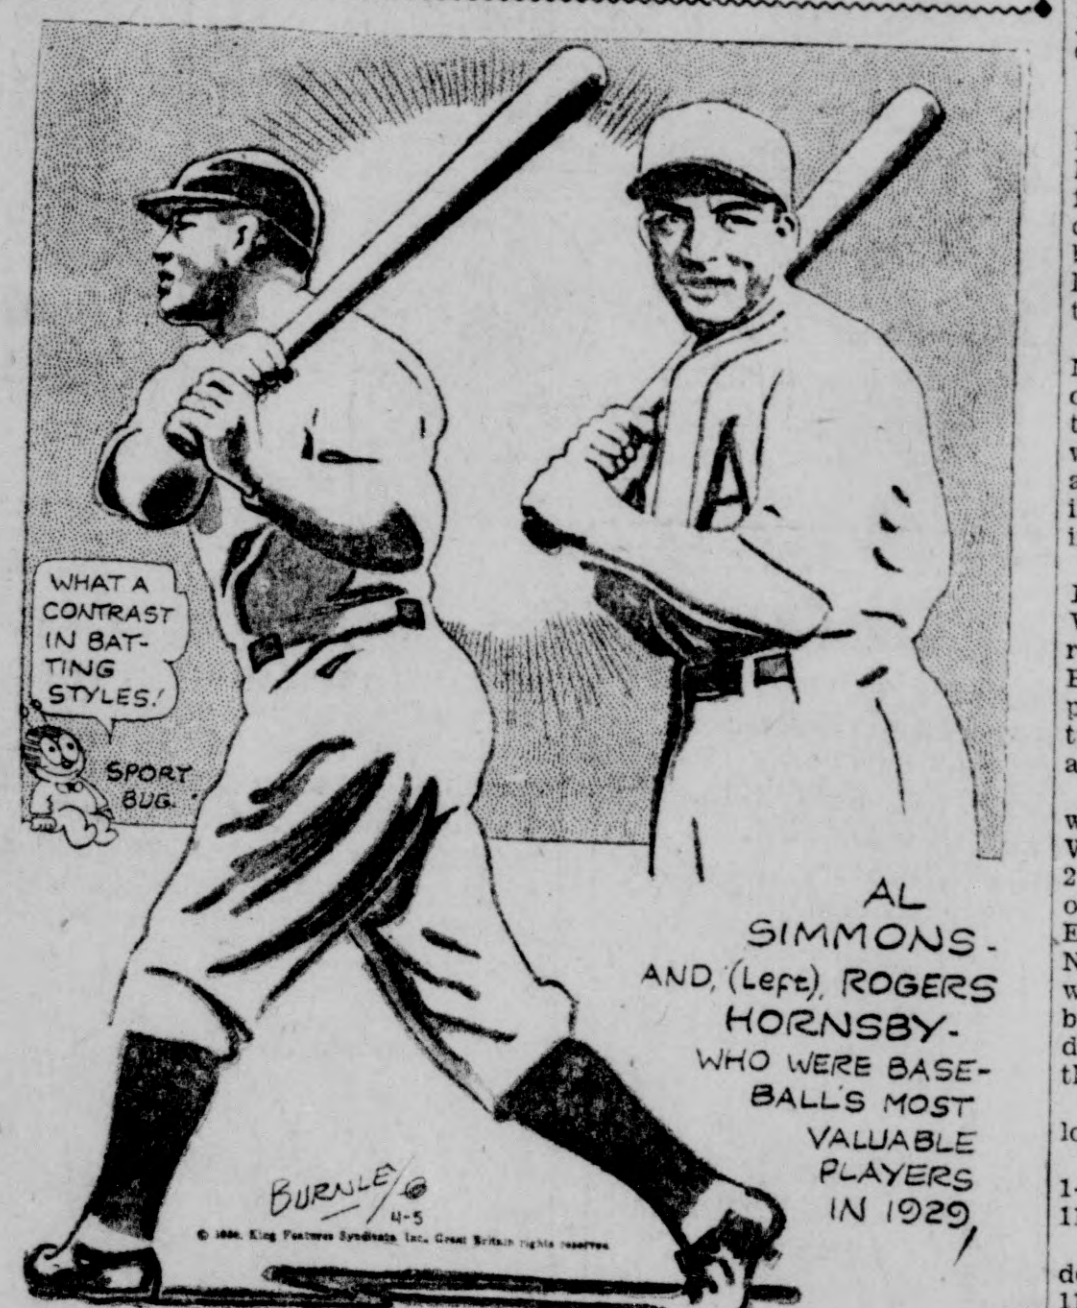

Gene Tunney trained at the Pennsylvania site before he defeated Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight title in Philadelphia.

Four Teams Stay In Title Chase

CHICAGO, April 5.—Four surviving high school teams from Kentucky, Texas, Louisiana and Wisconsin battled today for the national interscholastic basketball championship at the University of Chicago tournament entered the semi-finals.

The two survivors decide the championship tonight. Corinth, Ky., engages Jena, La., at 2 o'clock this afternoon and one hour after St. John's Military Academy of Delefield, Wis., and the quintet from Athens, Tex., meet.

"Most Valuable Player"

Consensus of big league baseball writers, which met with no conspicuous fan disapproval, awarded Rogers Hornsby, of the Chicago Cubs and Al Simmons, of the Philadelphia Athletics the honor of being "the most valuable player" in the National and American Leagues respectively last season. Hornsby, of course, has been one of the game's greatest for many years. Simmons has been coming to the fore since 1927. The "Rajah" is an infielder—easily the best second baseman since Napoleon Lajoie's prime. Athletics' Al is about the best all-around outfielder since Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker first came to national attention more than twenty years ago.

While highly satisfactory on defense, it is his offensive hitting power that makes both Hornsby and Simmons diamond standouts. They seem to register .325 or better in routine clouting form and when "hot," the "Rajah" and Al verge towards the .400 batting average. They not only hit hard and often, but they do so in timely fashion when singles or longer smashes win games. A citation from their general averages for 1929 in interesting view of their "most valuable player" distinction: Hornsby in 156 games and 602 times at bat, averaged .380, scored 156 runs, and boomed out 40 homers. Simmons in 143 games and 581 times at bat, averaged .365, scored 114 runs, and rapped 34 homers. In fielding, "Rajah" averaged .973; Al .989.

In the 1929 World series, Hornsby was a comparative flop, while Simmons scintillated among the Athletic stars. "Rajah" hit for only .238, and fielded .952. He struck out eight times during the five games played. Big Al hit .300 during the series, and fielded .967.

Their styles in the batter's box afford the most marked contrast. Hornsby unquestionably is a worthy and perfect successor to Lajoie as a stylist. He is orthodox grace when waiting with his willow for the pitcher's delivery. His stance is an artist's "glass of fashion," and his swing or "bunt" is a mobile "mould of form."

Central Region And Western Division Wins

Beat Eastern Division And New York Zone 10 To 6 In P. R. R. Finals

MEET ATTENDED BY RAILROAD EXECUTIVES

Pennsylvania railroad system boxing and wrestling championships last night went to the Central region and Western division when 32 athletes competed for supremacy in 16 wrestling and boxing bouts. The Eastern division and New York zone lost by a score of 10 to 6.

The athletes from the Central region and Western division which comprised the section commonly known as the West piled up 10 points against 6 for the Eastern division and New York zone by virtue of five wrestling and three boxing victories.

The outstanding performer on the boxing card was the heavyweight, Chet Johnson of Buffalo who knocked out Eddie Confer of Lewistown. While Confer weighed 231½, Johnson at 196, stepped around the pachydermic easterner, flooring him twice and Confer couldn't come up for the third round.

The wrestling and boxing tilts were witnessed by 1,500 fans and in only one bout was the decision mooted. This was the welterweight tilt between J. Sabatel, Long Island and Joe Louder, Pittsburgh. Sabatel was given the decision and the crowd did not like the award.

Getting down to brass tacks, it is the writer's opinion that the bout could have terminated at the end of the third round and given to Sabatel who took the first and third rounds. The second round was even but the judges, however, seem things different and the bout went a fourth round.

Verdict Goes To Sabatel Louder perked up and showed a little aggressiveness coupled to a flit left hand and when he took the fourth session according to our decision the decision was given to Sabatel which caused the fans to believe that Louder should have had the award.

Frankie Moran, Pittsburgh, 128 and N. Crisco, Bristol, Pa., 128, a pair of "club fighters" slugged from bell to bell and the referee, Pa., chap won the award with left crosses and aggressiveness. Moran's blows were all aimed and the judges lost no time in giving Crisco the award.

The flyweight tilt between Eddie Bradburn, Indianapolis and Willie Valente, Philadelphia went four rounds before the decision was given Bradburn. The former used a south-paw attack and Bradburn finally turned sideways and handed Valente a bunch of rights and took the award.

Dan Cowan, Pittsburgh lightweight wrestler tossed J. W. Polito, Williamsport, with a body hold in 2:51 and Eddie Youngstead, bantam of Pittsburgh, defeated Van Slyte, Elmira in 2:15 but the best mat bout was between C. A. Mitchell, Pittsburgh and B. Davidson, Tyrone, middleweights. It was fairly even all the way but Mitchell won.

The results of the boxing bouts follow: Eddie Bradburn, Indianapolis, 113-1-4 defeated W. Valente, Philadelphia 110-1, by decision, four rounds. Johnny Haggerty, Pittsburgh, 120, defeated Al Delano, New York City, 119-1, in three rounds. Delano was on the floor for a count of three in the second round.

N. Crisco, Bristol, Pa., 128, won from Frankie Moran, Pittsburgh, 128, in three rounds. Moran was floored in the second but did not take a count.

Defeats Bobby Britt W. Lutz, Long Island, 132-1-4 took the decision from Bobby Britt, Terre Haute, 132½, in three rounds.

J. Sabatel, Long Island, 148, defeated Joe Louder, Pittsburgh, 146, in a bout which went four rounds. Bob Krape, Pittsburgh, 160 scored a technical knockout over N. Isaacman, Harrisburg, 160, in the first round. He floored Isaacman for counts of two and four.

Stanley Simmons, Philadelphia, 176, defeated John Miller, Pittsburgh, 173-1-4, in three rounds. Simmons was too smart for Miller.

Chet Johnson, Buffalo, 196, scored a knockout over Eddie Confer, Lewistown, 231½, in the third.

Johnson had him down for a count of eight in the first and Confer was down when the bell ended the second. Falling his head hit the lower strand and was sitting, practically out when the bell rang for the third and Confer could not respond.

The results of the wrestling bouts: Eddie Youngstead, Pittsburgh, 119-3-4 threw J. Van Slyde, Elmira,

Propose Using Five-Men For Boxing Judges

New Yorkers Getting Tired Of Having Three Men Call Them Wrong

MUCH OPPOSITION TO PLAN AROUSED

By DAVID J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor
NEW YORK, April 5.—If boxing judges here continue to call their decisions as other people don't see them, the time may not be far distant when New York will be deciding its prize fights, including the many that involve world's championship, on the basis of a five-man vote.

This proposal, the writer learned exclusively today, has been broached to the New York boxing commission and, while it has indicated no opinion in the matter, the understanding is that the sentiment of at least one member is not unfavorable. The plan, if carried through, would add two judges to the present three-man system and give each an equal voice in the decision, it being figured quite conservatively that ten pairs of eyes ought to be able to find the right man before the end of a given evening. Nothing quite so radical ever before has been contemplated in boxing.

Many Bad Decisions. It merely is in the stage of contemplation, however; in fact, no action will be taken at this time for several reasons. One is that those to whom the project has been mentioned prefer to wait in order that they may discover whether so-called bad decisions are actually bad or simply an illusion of mob psychology, inspired by neighborly chagrin.

Another reason for delay is that the required amendment to the boxing law isn't considered possible at the present session of the state legislature. In regard to the latter, it may be stated that boxing matters at this time must be confined to the passage of the amendment, currently called the boxing Baumes law, by which incorrigible foulers are to be set down for periods of two months, three months and six months with each successive offense.

Don't Want Judges. As for professional old timers, any excuse that would delay an enactment of the proposed five-man system must, of necessity, be an excellent one. In fact, so far as they are concerned, if no action on this is ever taken it will be extremely premature. They are not for judges at all; they are reactionaries who feel that the referee alone should be the sole judge of play and that any plan that doesn't admit this is, per se, the figment of a blithering mind. Their reaction to the idea of four judges, instead of two, isn't likely to be tranquil; it is liable to be downright violent.

Arguments in favor of the proposal brief but not altogether illogical for instance, it is admitted that one prize fight can look a half dozen different ways, according to the direction from which one sees it.

From Five Sides. With four judges, it is claimed, the fight will be seen from five sides, namely, left, right, front, rear and from above, the last named sector being covered by the referee. The judges, if four in number, would occupy each of the four sides of the ring, thus covering the two sides that now are open.

Another argument centres around the fact that at present if two officials come to the fight blind or temporarily demented, the wrong man proceeds to win. This, they say, is unlikely to happen with a five-man vote, because the two psychopathic votes would cease to be the majority and become the meagre minority. Of course, one of the other officials might lose his mind before he gets a chance to speak it by way of the ballot but, at that, it must be conceded that the will of a majority of three is liable to be more sensible than that of a minority of two. Besides, one of five men will see any close fight as a draw, which forecloses any possibility of the wrong man winning.

So much for arguments in favor of the idea. Those against it needn't be listed for obvious reasons. I'm only writing a story, not an encyclopedia.

FROM TEE TO GREEN

Jones' grip on the putter.

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Sports Writer

In the illustration you see Bobby Jones grip on the putter. The first thing to remember in taking hold of the putter is that the grip is not tight but only loose enough to allow the wrists a free movement.

The average golfer in starting out will grip the leather far down the club. This forces him to stoop over the shot and is far off line with the ball.

Grip the club at the end of the stick with the left hand, put both arms well in toward the hips and swing back and forth in a straight line.

Never roll the wrists. In rolling the wrists the blade is either early or late and the ball goes to the right or left of the cup.

In the illustration of Alexa Sterling she has adopted a style of putting that is most natural to her, regardless of this her arms are well in to her sides and her wrists are free.

Under no condition is she gripping the club low on the leather. Alexa bends over further than Jones, but the action of the stroke is the same. The next time you are off your putting walk right up to the ball and put your feet together, tap it with a loose and rather reckless stroke. Do this until the putter nearly falls out of your hands that returns that, feel known as the "putting touch."

By Central Press
NEW YORK, April 5.—For the first time since the World war, the New York Yankees step into an American league season without the hard-bitten, pleasant little man who was Miller Huggins to lead them, to pet and to scold them, to drive them on to another championship.

The psychological effect of the absence of Huggins may have a something to do with the Yankees' chances to overtake the powerful Athletics, and then, again, it may not. However, the fact that this machine which Huggins built is under a new leader, an untired man, cannot help the Yanks any.

This is no condemnation of the new manager, Bob Shawkey. Far from it. He is an earnest and serious man, a veteran ballplayer, smart and well liked, a man in whom the Yankee ownership has placed its confidence.

It would be a tough job for the best known and veteran managers in either major league—this business of stepping into Miller Huggins' shoes and directing to a title a club that began to slip last year.

The Yankee roster has a lot of veterans on it. Big names, but men who are in the sunset of their career. If they win it will be because under Shawkey they have as a group recaptured that earlier spark of invincibility which drove them to six championships and crowned them three times the greatest club in baseball.

Shawkey says he is starting to rebuild the Gothamites and judging by developments at St. Petersburg he really is doing just that.

With Bob Meusel gone from the outfield Shawkey has found a fine looking successor to Bob in Allan Cooke, a hard-hitting youngster from St. Paul. The two other danger spots will be patrolled, of course, by the great Ruth and Earle Combs.

The Yankee infield looks like Lou Gehrig at first, Tony Lazzeri at second, Mark Koenig at short and Ben Chapman at third. Chapman is a new man. Jimmy Reese and Lyn Lary, a pair who starred on the Pacific coast, are on hand as utility infielders.

Unless Benny Bengough's arm recovers its old snap, Shawkey will use two other seasoned men behind the bat, Bill Dickey and Bill Hargreaves.

Save for George Pipgrass the Yankee hurling veterans are well along in their careers and the addition of several of the newer men to regular duty may be necessary.

Waite Hoyt, Herb Pennock and Tom Zachary are not so young as they used to be. However, Shawkey has a coming man in Roy Sherd and expects several of the recruits, such as Vernon Gomez and Americus Polli to do something in their first year up.

Polli and Gomez have been impressive in spring workouts and Shawkey seems pleased, which is a good sign for the Yankees, for if there is any baseball department in which Shawkey deserves the title of expert it is pitching.

Next: The Pittsburgh Pirates.

Freeman Rolls Perfect Score

Charles Freeman, Local Well Known Bowler Enter Ranks Of 300 Bowlers

Charley Freeman, local well known bowler, entered the select group of 300 bowlers in duckpins. The feat was accomplished at the Castle alleys. It takes 12 strikes to make a perfect score in bowling and Freeman was rather nervous as he reached the tenth. He took a rest between the 11th and 12th. The feat of a 300 score in bowling was quite remunerative, Freeman getting something like $50. He will also get a medal and may be several ribbons, who knows? It is the third 300 score of the year in Pennsylvania, the other two having been made by Pittsburgh bowlers. If you have never bowled 300 try it sometime, it's good for what ails you.

W. L. Mellon May Endorse Grundy

PITTSBURGH, April 5.—Reports current in political circles here today indicated former Republican Chairman W. L. Mellon might give his endorsement to the "Uncle Joe" Grundy gubernatorial campaign upon his return to this city Monday.

Political seers today said that reports were Mellon would declare for Grundy, although hitherto the fact that Mellon left the city a week ago without a word as to the support of his faction left observers with the impression he might be opposed to Grundy or at least be trying to be militantly neutral.

This observation was said to have come from the fact that County Commissioner Joseph C. Armstrong, Mayor Charles H. Kline, County Commissioner E. V. Babcock and others had declared at that time for the Davis-Brown ticket.

The statement expected from him Monday would be made in plenty of time for the campaign scheduled to open next week, it was said.

AMERICANISM: Giving the independent your sympathy because he's the underdog; giving the monopoly your patronage because it sells cheaper.

Early advances in the railroad stocks, the motors, coppers and oils were flattened out as profit-taking made its appearance in good volume. There were some exceptions to the rule. Standard Oil of New Jersey showing its ability to carry through to the year's highest price at 77 1/2, only 5 1/2 points below last year's peak and 27 1/2 points above the November break. General Motors was also in good form rising fractionally to 50 1/2 in an active market.

Compared with the violent movements of the last few days the week end market was a tame and quiet affair, commodity markets were steady and funds in good supply.

Columbia Gas and Electric rose 2 points to 85 on announcement of the new plan to segregate the oil and gas-oil properties from the utility property, through the formation of the Columbia Oil and Gasoline Corporation. Commonwealth and Southern pushed beyond 20 for the first time this year in extremely heavy trading. New York City and Gas and electrical stocks were in good demand, with Consolidated Gas at 128 1/2.

Most of the theatrical stocks were under selling pressure. Warner Brothers Pictures dropped off 3 points to 72 1/2; Radio Keith declined to 38 1/2, against Friday's high price above 40 and Radio Corporation broke below 60 for a loss of 1 1/2.

The week end business surveys by Dun's and Bradstreet's noted the further recoveries in important departments of domestic industry and the bright outlook for the second quarter. It is time these signs made their appearance, further stiffening of commodity prices has been of benefit to industry as a whole.

NEW YORK STOCKS
Profit-Taking Affects Prices In Market Today

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, April 5.—Although the slightly higher price levels in the short session of the week end market, industrial stocks were pushed downward from 1 to 3 points by the profit-taking which naturally followed the uninterrupted advances of the last few days.

Most of the theatrical stocks were under selling pressure. Warner Brothers Pictures dropped off 3 points to 72 1/2; Radio Keith declined to 38 1/2, against Friday's high price above 40 and Radio Corporation broke below 60 for a loss of 1 1/2.

Two Killed As Plane Topples

Two Californians Burned To Death As Plane Falls Near Roosevelt Field

OFFICIALS PROBE CAUSE OF TRAGEDY

(International News Service)
ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., April 5.—Reports that a side of its wing had worked loose and hung lamely from the fuselage causing a three-motored Bach monoplane to dive to earth, bringing death to two California flyers, were probed by federal and county investigators today.

The victims were T. Worden Hunter of Pasadena, Calif., president of the Bach Aircraft corporation of California, and formerly a prominent Detroit resident, and his pilot, R. W. McAllister of Los Angeles. As the plane struck a lot near here it was enveloped in flames, burning to death Hunter and McAllister.

The two men were returning to this field from a short visit to Bethany, Conn. They arrived here from the coast Wednesday and had planned to leave tomorrow for Detroit to exhibit the plane, a new model, at the Detroit air show, opening Monday.

Rescuers again and again rushed toward the burning plane in a vain attempt to save the occupants but the flames drove them back.

Hunter was married and the father of two children. McAllister formerly had been a stunt flyer in the movies.

Hawks Will Seek New Record For Cross-Nation Hop

(International News Service)
COLUMBUS, O., April 5.—Captain Frank Hawks took off from here for Cleveland in his motorless glider at 8:43 o'clock this morning, on the fifteenth leg of his transcontinental glider flight.

The "Eagle" glider, which is being towed by a plane which is piloted by Duke Jernigan, made a perfect take-off.

Just before soaring into the air, captain Hawks confirmed reports that he was having a new Lockheed Vega plane, with a cruising speed of 250 miles an hour, constructed. Rumors had become rife that the airman would attempt to lower the transcontinental non-stop flight record as soon as he completed his present glider flight.

Grange Play Given At Big Beaver Hall

"Cyclone Sally" Presented By Westfield Grange Players Wednesday Evening

Members of the cast of "Cyclone Sally," representing the Westfield grange, staged their production before the members of the Big Beaver grange in the latter's hall Thursday evening, April 3.

Leaving Westfield at 7:30, they motored to Big Beaver where they were well received by a capacity crowd. Both young and old enjoyed the cyclonic splurges of Sally and enjoyed many a laugh at Willie Clump's efforts to remember.

Training School For Nurses Will Be Discontinued

GREENVILLE, Pa., April 5.—Discontinuation of the nurses' training school at the Greenville hospital has been decided upon here, along with other hospitals of the smaller cities of western Pennsylvania.

It was learned last week that the state requirements, which would be necessary to keep the school's standing in good status, would cost more than it is felt the local institution can afford. For this reason it was decided to discontinue it, a step already taken by Corry, Ridgway and several other nearby cities.

Queen Victoria Of Sweden Dies

Death Claims Swedish Queen After Lingered Illness In Italian Villa

(International News Service)
LONDON, April 5.—Queen Victoria of Sweden died at her villa outside of Rome Friday evening after a lingering illness, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from the Italian capital.

The queen was 68 years of age. The queen came to her Italian villa several months ago when her physicians became considerably alarmed over her condition. While it was feared that her span of life was short, it was hoped a lengthy sojourn in the balmy Italian atmosphere would enable her to recoup her strength.

She gradually became weaker thru the weeks, however, and on several occasions administration of oxygen was necessary to keep her alive.

Her husband, King Gustav of Sweden, was with her wife when she died. News of her passing cast a pall of gloom over Rome, where she had attained great popularity during her frequent visits to that city.

Born in 1862.

Her majesty Queen Victoria of Sweden, wife of King Gustav, was born August 7, 1862, in Karlsruhe, Germany. She was the only daughter of the late Grand Duke Friedrich of Baden, and his wife, Princess Louise of Prussia. Her grandfather was Emperor William I of Germany.

She first met Gustav at the German army manoeuvres at Strassburg in the fall of 1879. They became engaged on March 12, 1881, and the wedding took place on September 20 of the same year.

Until the break of the union between Sweden and Norway in 1905, Victoria held the title of crown princess of both these Scandinavian countries. When her husband ascended the throne on December 8, 1907, she became the queen of Sweden.

The queen's health was never very strong, and although she spent her first summers in Sweden at the royal palace of Tullgarn, the air was considered unfavorable and a better location was found on the Swedish island of Oeland, in the Baltic sea, where a villa was erected for her.

Queen Victoria had three sons, Gustav Adolfus, heir to the throne; William, Duke of Södermanland, and accomplished poet and novelist, and Erik, Duke of Vaerstergothland, who died in 1918.

The victim's husband, Reuben Helms, returned home from work Tuesday evening to find his wife lying strangled to death on the living room floor with a black satin ribbon wound tightly about her throat.

Fathers And Sons Enjoy Evening At First Christian

Dr. C. B. Wingerd Delivers Address On Responsibilities Of One To Other

The Men's Bible class of the First Christian church sponsored a father and son banquet Friday evening for the men of the church with their sons or adopted sons as guests. Dr. R. C. Gilmore is president of the class and the arrangements were complete in every detail.

John C. Jones presided as toastmaster and cleverly introduced the various entertaining numbers. The toast by the fathers was given by Dr. R. C. Gilmore and was responded to, for the sons, by Raymond Bennett.

Dr. C. B. Wingerd, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, gave the "Father and Son" address of the evening, which he did in his splendid manner. He talked man to man and boy to boy of the responsibilities of the fathers toward their boys and of the sons toward their fathers. His talk was well received and heartily enjoyed by the guests.

The pep singing was led by R. E. Johns of the First Christian choir and there was music throughout the dinner and evening by the Sunday school orchestra. Harold Value, one of the faculty of George Washington school, pleased with several saxophone solos. Vocal selections were given by Sam McCleary and a pleasing duet was given by Messrs. Anthony and Cassidy of the Highland choir.

The A. C. T. Class of the church prepared and served the dinner.
